Lab director hits nuclear treaty plans

Times Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The director of Lawrence Livermore Laboratory testified Thursday that two pending nuclear test ban treaties with the Soviet Union would hamper the development of bigger nuclear warheads at Livermore.

In a cautious statement before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Dr. Robert E. Batzel claimed that the Livermore scientists and engineers will have to scale down their experiments if the treaties win Senate ratification as expected later this year.

The treaties have received little public attention in recent months because of the more dramatic Strategic Arms Limitation talks with the Soviets. If approved, however, the treaties would be the first nuclear test ban agreements since a pact was signed in 1963, banning open air detonations.

"If I were advising the president, I would suggest that he defer this treaty," said Dr. Harold M. Agnew, director of the Los Alamos Laboratories in New Mexico. Both Livermore and Los Alamos are operated by the University of California under contract with the Energy and Research Development Administration.

Agnew, taking a stronger position than Batzel, claimed that the treaties would give the Soviets a "favored" status since they have completed more large nuclear tests than the U.S.

"We need some clear sign of Soviet constraint before enacting the treaties," Agnew said.

The testimony of both Agnew and Batzel came in marked contrast to the comments from top ERDA officials, who backed the treaties as the best agreement to come along since the 1963 ban.

The two treaties would prohibit all underground nuclear explosions greater than 150 kilotons, or 150,000 tons of TNT, both for peaceful and military purposes.

He heard a lonesome whistle blow

LIVERMORE — Greg Gomes just couldn't get off the wrong track Wednesday morning — and neither could the 36-car freight train that roared through the middle of his 1969 Dodge.

According to the highway patrol, Gomes was driving along Goecken Road north of the Old Altamont Road Wednesday about 12:45 a.m. when he tried to make a U-turn and got his car stuck in the estern Pacific railroad tracks.

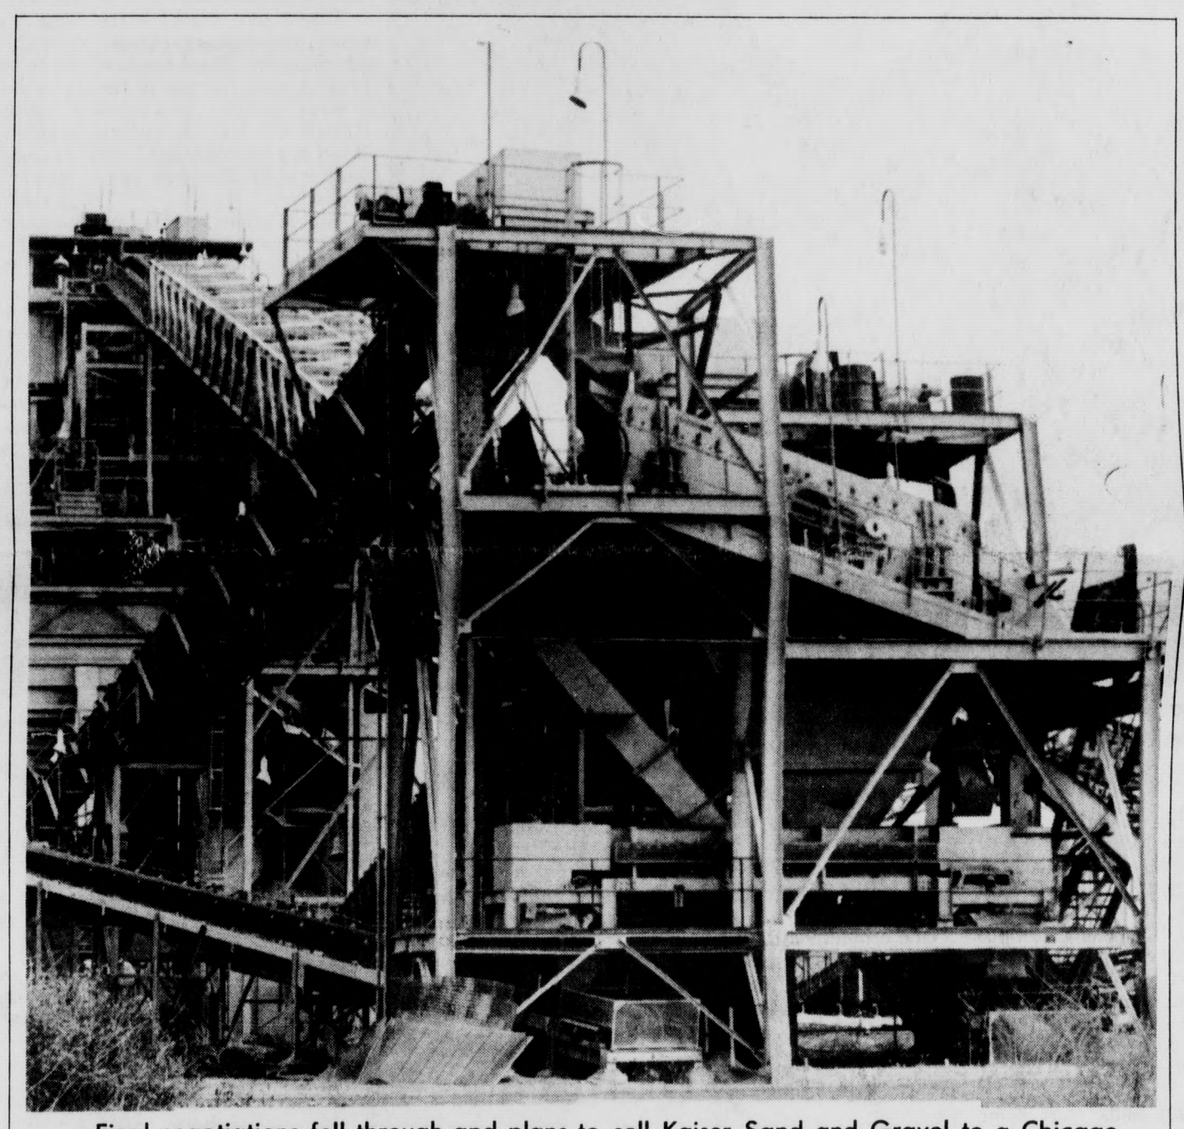
The Tesla Road resident wheezed and grunted for 30 minutes but couldn't remove his car from the rail line. Then he heard a train whistle.

Gomes ran down the tracks toward the approaching train but couldn't make himself seen. Engineer John Cosby of Sacramento reported seeing nothing before impact.

The 36-car freight train rammed through Gomes' car at approximately 40 mph, sending the car's engine and front end parts flying to the north side of the tracks. The car's rear end stuck fast to the front of the train, the highway patrol spokesman said.

The train was unable to stop until after all its cars had passed the ruins of Gomes' car, the spokesman added.

There were no injuries and no citations were issued.



Final negotiations fell through and plans to sell Kaiser Sand and Gravel to a Chicago firm were dumped this week.

Kaiser sale collapses

Kaiser Sand and Gravel is back on the market after negotiations to sell the firm to a Chicago based corporation were broken off.

Kaiser Industries and Material Service Corp. made the announcement jointly this week, saying the two were unable to reach a definitive agreement and had terminated negotiations.

Kaiser has extensive land holdings and an elaborate mining operation in the lands between Livermore and Pleasanton. It is one of the Valley's "big four" quarry miners.

Kaiser and MSC earlier had announced a tentative $23 million cash sale that would have resulted in a $7 million pretax loss.

"We could not reach a mutual agreement," sand and gravel vice president and general manager Arnold Abrott said yesterday.

Future biddings and negotiations will be handled by Kaiser Industries, but "we're going to be sold. There's no question about that," he added.

A number of aggregate firms had made tentative inquiries after Kaiser Industries announced plans to liquidate its subordinate companies, including the mining operation.

Abrott would not comment on possible buyers.

Only the sand and gravel division and a 50 per cent interest in National Steel and Shipbuilding remain to be sold, according to a Kaiser Industries' representative.

The edge for new planners

DANVILLE — Acquiring local control over residential and commercial development is the chief aim of San Ramon Valley's first Area Planning Commission which has been officially launched by the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors.

Yesterday morning at a liaison session at the Danville Hotel Restaurant and Saloon, Supervisor Eric Hasseltine told a group of 45 the newly - selected commissioners had an awareness of the Valley's specific problems that would give them an edge on dealing with local developmental needs.

Hasseltine is Contra Costa County's fifth district supervisor. He was instrumental in getting the new area commission formed.

"But input and cooperation from citizens is still of prime importance to the commission so they can keep in touch with local needs," Hasseltine added.

The area commission will replace the San Ramon Valley Community Planning Committee. They will also take over some of the duties usually handled by the county planning commission.

The seven-member area planning commission includes Linda Best, Juanita Burrow, Dick Kennett, John Meakin, John Olander, Nelson Wright and Andy Young.

YYoung is the only member who also serves on the county planning commission.

The county budget for operating the newly formed commission is $10,000 annually. The commission is set up as a two-year experiment. After that time, voters will decide whether or not they want the commission to continue. If voters say yes, they will be agreeing to assume some of the financial burden of supporting the commission.

While speaking at the liaison meeting yesterday morning, County Planning Director Anthony Dehaesus cautioned the new area commissioners to make correct decisions.

"Appeal procedures can be made to the board of supervisors but that is time consuming," he warned. "This job will be a real challenge for the new commissioners."

Harvey Bragdon will officiate at commission meetings. He is County Assistant Planning Director for Current Planning.

This weekend

Chabot here

Hospital salutes auxiliary

Valley Memorial Hospital will honor its Junior Auxiliary Saturday, Sept. 10, with a luncheon and awards presentation at the Emperor's Garden in Livermore at noon.

Modeling and a fashion show will be included in the program, where volunteers between the ages of 15 to 18 will be honored.

Lab invites the family

In observance of the 25th aniniversary of the founding of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, Family Days will be held Sept. 10 and 11 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Highlights of the Family Days include visiting the laser and magnetic fusion facilities, ultra-precision machine shops, nuclear chemistry areas and weapons displays, and playing numerous computer games.

Admittance to Family Days activities is not open to the general public.

Chabot faces Ohlone

Chabot College's long-time champion soccer team is seeking to regain that form this season. So far, they've done well, shellacking Santa Rosa, 5-0, in Hayward this week.

Tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the Pleasanton Sports Park, the Gladiators take on the Ohlone College Renegades in the second practice match of the season for Chabot.

Mormons buy SR school site

DANVILLE — The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints outbid two developers to acquire a choice piece of surplus school property in Danville.

The 7.9-acre site off Sycamore Valley Road adjacent to the Education Center was bid on Tuesday by the San Ramon Valley Unified School District, which had no use for the land.

In a tense but low-keyed auction, Mormon representatives kept pushing the $285,000 base price higher until officials from Renowned Enterprises and Frumenti Development dropped out at $455,000.

Church officials said they planned to build a church on the property.

Proclamation Sunday

Livermore honors sister cities

Sunday marks the 21st anniversary of Sister Cities International and Livermore mayor Helen Tirsell is scheduled to proclaim the day in honor of the city's two sisters, Yotsukaido, Japan and Quezaltenango, Guatemala. The ceremony is scheduled for 1 p.m. at Mills Square.

The week of Sept. 11 to Sept. 17, scheduled as the 2nd Annual Quezaltenango Week, will feature a Guatemalan-style fiesta Saturday, Sept. 17. and the Guatemalan flag will fly all week from the city flag pole.

Sister Cities International was formed in 1956 as part of President Eisenhower's People-to-People program. Livermore joined the program with Quezaltenango in 1965 and last year with Yotsukaido. Since then, Livermore residents have visited both cities.

Quezaltanango, with a population of 65,000, is the third largest city in Guatemala and is named for the quetzal, the parrot-like nation in the subtropics, its altitude of 7,690 feet gives it a cool climate popular with tourists.

Guatemala was part of the Mayan civilization before the Spanish Conquest and a statue of the last Mayan chief, Tecun Uman, greets visitors to Quezaltenango today. With the collapse of Spanish rule in Mexico a revolutionary junta declared Guatemamlan independence and joined Mexico on Sept. 15, 1821. Two years later it withdrew and joined the United Provinces of Central America.

Saturday's fiesta should feature some typical foods Guatemalan foods which resemble Mexican food but are less spicy. Black beans are dietary staples, comparable with potatoes in America. Chicken and pork are widely used in enchiladas and tamales and fruit, rice and tortillas are also common. Guatemala is also a leading producer of coffee.

Several Livermore students attended school last spring in Quezaltenango and at the university in Guatemala City. They are slated to speak about their experiences to the Rotary Club next week. Information on becoming a Guatemalan exchange student is also available from the Spanish departments at Granada and Livermore High Schools or by contacting Mrs. Lundberg the Sister City organization, 447-7155.

Builder tapping tap, but it's legal

SAN RAMON — Suspicions of waternapping nowadays and horsenapping years ago are on an equal par for bringing down wrath of local citizens.

One drought conscious San Ramon resident got so upset over an alleged illegal use of public water he aired his complaint over KNBR radio.

The unidentified man accused Dame Construction Company, Inc. of San Ramon of sneaking water from public fire hydrants by using a hose system then using that water to irrigate an entire tract of new model homes.

A check with Dame officials, East Bay Municipal Utilities District (EBMUD), and San Ramon Fire Chief William Fereira shed light on the matter.

A Dame official said they were using water from a fire hydrant near their Twin Creeks South development but were following standard operating procedures by having a meter installed on the hydrant.

"We are using the water for earth compaction purposes and are paying the East Bay Municipal Utilities District standard rates for the water," the Dame spokesman said.

Public Information Representative, David Vossbrink of EBMUD, backed up Dame's claim.

"Contractors are allowed to apply for hydrant meters," Vossbrink said. "The water can be used for earth compaction purposes only."

He said EBMUD consults with contractors, goes over development plans and estimates the contractor's needs. The hydrant meters are then checked out of the EBMUD business office in Walnut Creek.

'The amount of water allotted depends on the contractor's individual construction site," Vossbrink continued. "The most standard water rate for contractor use is 39 cents per 100 cubic feet. The 100 cubic feet equals 750 gallons."

Vossbrink pointed out there are other rate variations set up according to the level of water needs.

Contractors are subject to regulations just like everyone else, according to Vossbrink. They are fined if they go over their allotment. Also, they can only use the metered water for a certain period of time.

"But if a contractor's development isn't finished within the estimated time, they can renegotiate, Vossbrink noted.

The water can be hosed into a tank truck or sprayed directly on the ground as long as it is used solely for earth compaction.

Chief Fereira also verified the Dame claim.

"They are using water from one hydrant on North Canyon Road for earth compaction purposes in their Twin Creeks South development."

Vossbrink and Fereira said any other use by Dame would be highly illegal.

Refuge looking for funds

A small group seeking to establish the Valley's first refuge for battered women has reached the fundraising stage, organizer Cathy Brown of Livermore reports.

The group incorporated recently as Tri - Valley Haven for Women. The next step is to get a shelter, but first the group must find the funds for it.

"We sure could use someone who knows how to write a grant proposal," Brown told The Times. "If anyone can do that or give any ideas or support in fundraising, he or she can call me at 447-7621," said Brown.

The group did have a garage sale, but that netted only $150. The highlight was the visit from the police who told them that their signs were violating the city's sign ordinance and they would have to remove them, which they did.

Although the facility has not been obtained yet, Brown gets as many as six calls in a week from women ho need a shelter. She refers them to the women's refuge in Hayward and other refuges in the Bay Area.

The nature of "spouse abuse" or wifebeating as it used to be called, is suc that many of the victims don't want to stay in the Valley for fear of reprisal from husbands or boy friends. In cases like that, the local haven will refer women to Hayward and it's likely some Hayward women would come here to get away from a hostile spouse in that area.

Cathy Brown of Livermore and other Valley residents have incorporated as Tri - Valley Haven for Women and are looking for a grant writer to help get funding for a facility to house battered women.

(Times Photo)

"We want a home where we can have between 10 and 20 women and their kids so they can physically get away from the beatings," said Brown. "Right now we can refer them to Emergency Fund Center which can put them up for a night or two in a motel, but we need a place where they can stay for a month and qualify for welfare and get out on their own."

The shelter also would provide counseling services for battered spouses. Toward that end she is looking for Valley counselors, especially female counselors, who might be available to help or give suggestions.

"We also want to a get a rap group starting next month, if we can," said Brown. "A woman can just come there and talk and get support. A lot of times a woman feels that no one else is going through what she is going through. It's a really scarey thing to share."

Brown finds that some women are afraid to go to local doctors because the doctors are not very supportive of their problem. "A doctor ought to ask if she wants to file a police complaint or at least listen to what they say," said Brown. "Doctors also should get involved in resources and know where to refer women."

One problem with filing a complaint with police is that the abuse victim has to live with her oppressor, said Brown. Another is that police traditionally don't want to get involved in domestic quarrels, though in the Valley Brown has had reassurances from police that they will cooperate all they can.

Board approves flood control plan in SRV

MARTINEZ — The Board of Supervisors Tuesday unanimously approved a $5.6 million flood control project for the San Ramon Valley watershed.

When it's finished — two elderly lady ranchers charged it will destroy their livelihood.

But representives of Danville area housing tracts called the plan "enormously progressive." Conservation groups endorsed the plan too.

When the final vote came, supervisors stipulated that the flood control project on a portion of the Weber sisters Skyview Ranch off Green Valley Road not be built until the very end of the 20-25 year project.

But 72-year-old Thelma Weber was not appeased.

"We're not finished yet," she declared with conviction. "We're going to fight to the end."

During an emotional, two hour public hearing Tuesday, Weber called the plan to use part of Skyview as a flood basin a "brazen land grab."

"It will destroy every vintage of our home and of our ranch." Weber charged.

Reading from a prepared statement, Weber asked, "Just why is the flood control so set on taking the Weber property? Do they find it easier to take on women alone, the old, the poor, two old ladies rather than the rich and the powerful?

Not once has the flood control listened to one thing we have said, or made even one concession, although numerous other projects have been dropped entirely or changed..."

Another property owner, whose proposed 25 unit subdivision off Blackhawk Road is also jeapordized by the plan, took a different method of attack.

Calling in a private soils consultant, the Diablo Investment Company, represented by hydrologist Robert Nevin, presented an alternative plan for another Green Valley Creek basin, this one to be built further upstream from the Webers.

The alternative basin would only take up 10 acres as opposed to 25 proposed by flood control and cost $1 million dollars less than the $1.5 million price tag outlined by the county.

Flood Control engineer Milton Kubicek, although acknowledging the space and cost savings, said the alternative basin, which would be built partially above ground,was a seismic risk as well as an engineering eyesore being supported in part by concrete embankments.

However, in a motion to accept the total flood plan, Supervisor Eric Hasseltine, stipulated that further analysis of the alternatives for the upper Green Valley basin should be made.

But testimony was not restricted to opponents of the plan.

Maurice Laymon, representing the Diablo Hacienda Homeowners Association, the Diablo Grange and the Valley Action Forum, called the plan "enormously progressive."

He said the project wouldn't just protect future developments, but would also prevent damage to existing houses, many of which were flooded during the severe rains of 1958 and 1962.

Valley obituary

James Wright

James S. Wright, 69, a native of Scotland and Livermore resident the past four years, died Wednesday in Valley Memorial Hospital.

He moved to the Valley from Boston, Mass., where he was employed by the Iowa Beef Co. He was past Chief of Scottish Clans (Clan Sutherland no. 191, F.&A.M.)

He is survived by wife Margaret Wright and daughter Constance Wardell, both of Livermore; sisters Barbara Tatlow, Florida, and Isa Stewart, Scotland; and grandchildren William, James and Patricia Wardell, all of Livermore.

Friends may call at the Callaghan Mortuary, 3833 East Ave., Livermore, between noon and p.m. and 7 and 9 p.m. today.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the chapel of the mortuary. Interment in Memory Gardens Cemetery, Livermore, will follow.

LLL head knocks nuclear pact plan

They would also establish a watchdog observer program.

Without being specific, Batzel said that advanced nuclear weapons research — the construction of larger and more powerful warheads— would be "precluded" by adoption of the treaties.

Although it wasn't mentioned specifically, the controversial neutron bomb, which was developed at Livermore, has prompted some lawmakers to call for further curtailment of nuclear weapons research.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I. was clearly leaning in this direction when he asked Batzel what would happen at Livermore if all nuclear testing were banned.

Batzel responded that some staff cutbacks would be inevitable. But he defended the lab's operation as necessary to maintain existing nuclear stockpiles.

He said 55 percent of the Livermore Lab was devoted to nuclear weapons research.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, complained that the 150 kiloton limit in the treaties is too high. He pointed out that the bomb dropped on Hiroshima, Japan at the close of World War II was only 20 kilotons.

However, open air detonations such as the Hiroshima bomb have been banned since the 1963 treaty which is stil in effect.

Architects get go ahead for campus addition

Chabot trustees issue call for vocation center plans

South County Community College District trustees have authorized architects to proceed with schematic and preliminary plans for the technical-vocational building for the Chabot College Valley Campus.

The go-ahead to architects Delp, W. Johnson, Poole and Storm of San Francisco was given by trustees Tuesday.

The building would contain 30,000 square feet, expandable to 50,000, and is scheduled to be ready for use in the fall of 1979, providing construction delays are not encountered. Dr. Reed L. Buffington, president of Chabot College, has termed the building crucial to the development of the Valley Campus.

Total budget for the building was set at $2,573,492, to include construction and site costs, fees, inspection, contingency, and all other costs except movable instructional equipment.

In a separate action, the Board approved a preliminary proposal to Exxon Education Foundation for a project to be conducted at the Valley Campus.

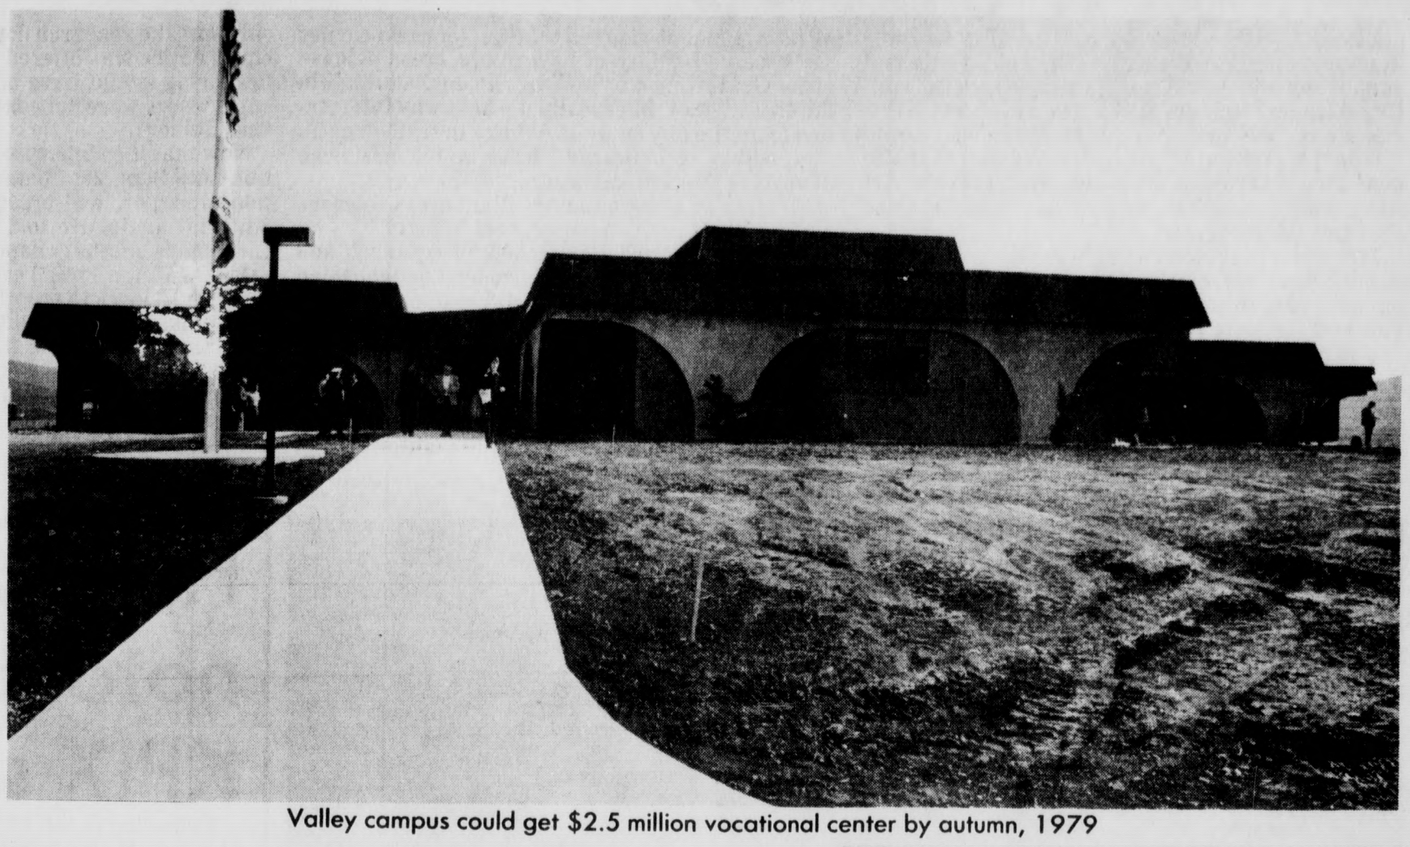
If funded, the project will provide reassigned time for Valley Campus faculty, to research, design, write, and evaluate the Campus' career occupational programs.

Dr. Barbara Mertes, Dean of the Valley Campus, said the projected curriculum "would bring to our technical - vocational students certain sets of skills for which employers look."

In other action, the board instructed Dr. Buffington to write a letter stating the board's opposition to a proposed move of the business and government library, now located on Montgomery Street in Hayward, to Oakland.

The board also asked Dr. Buffington to arrange a meeting where the board could give its response to the Master Plan of the Board of Governors.

October 25 was set as the tentative date for a study session on college facilities.



Valley campus could get $2.5 million vocational center by autumn, 1979

Pleasanton rolls down 200 from estimates

PLEASANTON— Pleasanton Joint School District enrollment is down 200 from first week estimates, after initial class sessions this week.

Classes in the Pleasanton, San Ramon and Murray districts are not in session today because of the Admission Day holiday.

The seven Pleasanton district schools totaled 4,839, according to the district office.

Principal Ron Alsup at Pleasanton said each of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades was down 30 to 40 students. A total of 900 had enrolled through Wednesday.

Valley View principal Jim Scott reported 745 students with 38 "no shows." The figure includes 52 kindergarten from Pleasanton. Scott said there were five classes of 35 each in the fifth grade.

Vintage Hills counted 236, being a bit crowded according to Scott in the first grade. He attributed the latter condition to first-second combo classes.

Alisal has a total of 660 students in 22 classes. Principal John Bristow said three kindergarten secctions each had 30 or 31 students.

He reported that busing of Del Prado students was working out well.

There will be a communications workshop at Alisal Monday at 3 p.m.

Walnut Grove interim principal Tom Ingham reported 758 enrolled, 54 short of the estimate.

Fairlands has 557 students with principal Gene Vargas reporting slightly more than 30 average per class in first grade.

Harvest Park has 89 fifth graders, 309 sixth graders, 312 in the seventh grade and 280 in the eighth. Principal Dale Hudson said the sixth grade is full.

Superintendent Bruce Newlin said the district expected enrollment counts closer to original projections by Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Newlin announced that the first School-Community Council meeting will be at district offices on Thursday, Sept. 29, at 7:30 p.m. Dean Hagen will speak on student discipline.

Free swimming

DUBLIN — Free recreational swimming will be conducted through Fall by the Valley Community Services District Recreation Department (weather permitting.).

The San Ramon Olympic Pool will remain open on weekends only until Oct. 2. The Valley Community Swim Center will be open Saturday and Sunday through early November (tentative).

The following schedule will be in effect as of Sept. 10.

Adult Fitess, noon to 1 p.m.; Recreational Swimming, 1 to 5 p.m.

There is no fee. For more information call 828-7711.

Body found

EUREKA (AP) — A month after Glenn Crites was convicted by a local jury even though authorities hadn't found the victim's body, authorities think they have found the corpse.

A body believed to be that of Ronald Klein, 22, of Florida, who disappeared last year, has been recovered from a shallow grave near the Trinity River, the Humboldt County coroner said Wednesday.

Foreign students need host family

Host families in the Valley are needed for nine Swedish and one Italian student who hope to come here for the 1977-78 school year under the auspices of Student International Service of Europe.

The 10 are presently in Europe awaiting word from Valley SIS representative Judie Luepke, a resident of Livermore.

Host families are asked to provide bed and board for the senior high school age youngsters, all of whom are proficient in English and will bring their own spending money.

The group was supposed to have arrived two weeks ago but cannot embark from their homes in Europe until housing and a host family are guaranteed.

The students will attend local high schools, just as the group from Sweden did last year.

Valley residents interested in hosting a student in the SIS program are urged to contact Mrs. Luepke as soon as possible at 443-4936.

Lecture series opens

An eight week community lecture series on "Awareness in Education" sponsored by the Livermore Valley Joint Unified School District's Adult School Tuesday, Sept. 13.

The series was developed by school personnel nd community members to explore and question aspects of educational reform. Planned speakers include state school superintendent Wilson Riles and Assemblyman Floyd Mori.

The lecture series will is scheduled to open with researcher and lecturer Robert E. Samples of Tiburon on "Cerebral Celebration, A vision of wholism in mind."

In service credit will be granted to Livermore teachers, no tuition or fees will be required and the public is invited. The series will be held at St. Charles Borromeo Church, 1315 Lomitas Ave. at 7 p.m.

City never had chance with TV

LIVERMORE — Nobody in the Valley had any input, pro or con, to the KPIX (Channel 5) editorial supporting the Las Positas new town proposal, City Attorney Reiners said Tuesday.

Reiners revealed that Janet Mira, who wrote Channel 5's editorial, allegedly told him that she consulted a series of press releases from the Art Blum public relations firm in San Francisco for the "pro" arguments.

The "anti" arguments came from a position paper by Supervisor John George of Oakland, who opposes new town primarily on grounds it would concentrate more resources in the suburbs instead of putting them into the core cities like Oakland.

City of Livermore didn't even know about the editorial until two hours after it was aired, Reiners told The Times.

Then Reiners called Channel 5 and talked to Mira, who acknowledged that a day or two earlier she received a City of Livermore press release about Geldermann's "last minute media blitz" (in the city's view). But she did not have any information from the city on what Reiners described as an "incredibly complicated" issue which has been alive over the past four years.

All Mira used were the Art Blum press releases and George's position paper, said Reiners.

Reiners criticized Mira's lack of research and then the discussion on the telephone degenerated into something less than a discussion, said Reiners, as both parties argued their preferred sides of the new town question.

Reiners, under instructioons passed Tuesday night by the city council, will write to the Federal Communications Commission complaining about the way Channel 5 has handled the editorial. Not only was the research done badly, but a only a few hours notice was offered for taping a rebuttal and the airing would have been two hours before the supervisors were scheduled to vote on the matter, said Reiners.

Now that the supervisors have delayed the question until Sept. 22, Channel 5, according to its station manager, will broadcast the pro - new town editorial again. He told The Times he will offer Livermore another chance at rebuttal.

Mayor Helen Tirsell said yesterday she will confer with Reiners to see what to do about a rebuttal. She thinks the KPIX editorial is such a big generality that it would be tough to rebut it in just a couple of minutes on a complex issue. More to the point might be a critique of how KPIX arrived at its conclusions, she said.

Smog levels were higher here than in other monitoring centers

It was a good month to breathe the air

The Valley was relatively smog-free in June, according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, although readings from the Livermore station show generally higher pollutant averages than any of the other two dozen recording centers.

There were no excesses of state or federal standards for carbon monoxide, nitrogen dioxide or sulfur dioxide during the month.

But the state standard for suspended particulates was exceeded June 23 at five stations, including Livermore.

Pittsburg in neighboring Contra Costa County took high honors with 124 micrograms per cubic meter that day. Measuring devices in Livermore recorded a 107 level, seven points above the state standard.

The Valley had the highest monthly mean average of suspended particulates at 78 micrograms per cubic meter. San Jose, which never exceeded the standard, averaged 57 mpcm.

The photochemical oxidant, or ozone standard, was exceeded on 11 days in the Bay Area, "a seasonally typical value after three months of no excesses," according to the BAAPCD.

But Livermore took high honors by hurdling the limit on three days and offering the highest reading in the Bay Area.

The station reported oxidant readings of .12 parts per million on June 24 and 25. The high point came about 2 p.m.

The Livermore station also recorded the highest mean average of oxidant concentrations1 at 6.5. By contrast, neighboring San Jose averaged 5 ppm and exceeded the standards only once.

Clean air honors were given to San Francisco and Oakland with 1.9 ppm monthly averages.

The Valley fared better in carbon monoxide concentrations, hitting a maximum three parts per million and 1.8 ppm average.

Comparatively, San Rafael in Marin County hit a high of 6 ppm and a monthly average of 4.3 ppm.

The Valley fell behind Sunnyvale and San Jose in nitrogen dioxide concentrations at a monthly average of 5 pphm and a high of eight.

Sunnyvale recorded a 5.6 pphm average and high of 12, and San Jose a 5.1 pphm average and high of nine.

Here's the notorious KPIX stand

Following is the text of the KPIX (Channel 5) editorial to which Livermore city officials have objected on grounds it was poorly researched and timed badly for any rebuttal from the city.

"A growth - no growth controversy is heating up in Alameda County. On Sept. 1 the issue will come to a head when the Alameda Supervisors decide on whether or not to approve building Las Positas new town just north of Livermore. The town would be located on about 4,000 acres of fair to poor farmland.

"Maximum population would be 45,000 and the town would have its own industrial parks, shopping center, schools and utility system. As we see it there are good reasons for going ahead with this project.

"First, the land is not well suited for other purposes.

"The town will pay for itself by forming a separate county service area rather than depending on the county for things like police and fire protection.

"And third, housing is desperately needed as anyone who has tried to buy a place recently knows.

"KPIX urges the Alameda County Board of Supervisors to approve the Las Positas development."

Work bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation allowing employes of state and local government to work beyond the mandatory retirement age — if they are still competent — has been sent to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

A 66-0 vote in the Assembly Wednesday approved Senate amendments to the measure, AB 568 by Assemblyman Richard Alatorre.

A similar bill affecting private employes was sent to the governor last week.

AB 568 would not affect police officers and firefighters. Mandatory retirement ages vary from 65 to 70. The state's is 67.

State and local agencies would set standards for employes to prove competence.

The sign in the background is a mockup of the Holdener's electric sign and the Livermore city council hoped it would be more visible to customers on Stamnley Boulevard.

Dairy owners await word on their sign

Tuesday night the Livermore city council is scheduled to evaluate the success of its six week compromise with Holdener's Drive-In Dairy on Stanley Boulevard.

Aug. 1 the owners, Fred and Elsie Holdener, requested a variance from the city's sign ordinance and the council suggested a mock-up of the Holdener's electric sign be set farther from the property line to improve its visibility from the street.

The Holdeners' original sign was removed over a year ago when the city ruled it did not conform with its sign ordinance. Since then, the Holdeners said, their business has been adversely affected because the conforming sign is less visible.

The ordinance states signs cannot exceed 25 square feet, must be horizontal to the street unless placed on a corner lot and cannot be free standing unless belonging to a business such as the Holdeners' which is set back from the street.

Elsie Holdener was dissatisfied with the council's decision.

"They told us a sign isn't for advertising but for identification," she said of the council's action.

She added that since then some drivers have pulled into the Holdeners' driveway, about 100 yards west of the drive-in, looking for the entrance.

"The only thing they would allow us would be a free-standing sign (horizontal) with a couple of small directional signs and it just isn't noticeable," she said.

The Holdeners said customers' comments prompted them to request a variance from the ordinance. They presented a petition to the council with over 800 signatures in support over a year ago but said it was "ignored."

The sign ordinance was enacted ten years ago to prevent an accumulation of signs in the business area. However, the Holdenerd, the dairy is because their property is zoned agricultural and visual problems for cars prevent proper signalling when customers turn in to the drive-in.

Not what they meant

In a story on page 20 of Wednesday's Times concerning developer Darwin Datwyler's plans to build 22, two-story townhouses on the future Del Valley Parkway, a fallacious inference resulted in quoting neighborhood spokeswoman Olga Morrow.

Morrow and the Pleasanton Safe Streets Association have sued the city and another developer, Morrison Homes, to block widening of the proposed parkway.

The last paragraph of the story reads: "If the safe streets group wins, Datwyler's lot would be 'chopped up,' Morrow said."

Morrow's reference was not to the suit, but to the association's proposal to run the four-lane parkway along the Arroyo Del Valle.

If the parkway traces the channel, not if the group wins their suit, Datwyler's lot will be "chopped up," she said.

There are "other alternatives" in locating the parkway, Morrow said yesterday, and the association "is not out to get (Datwyler)."

The Times regrets any inconvenience or embarassment caused by the story.

A veteran of the auto business

Service is the key, says Pleasanton's veteran car dealer, T.W. "Tony" Goe. Goe has been in the auto business in the Valley for 20 years, first in Livermore then his present location, 901 Santa Rita Rd. since 1960.

A native of Jackson Hole, Wyo., Goe has been in the automobile since 1935; first in Salt Lake City, later in San Francisco before coming to the Valley in 1957.

"I probably wouldn't have left Jackson Hole except you couldn't make a living there. Now my sons go there on their vacations," he said of sons Tom and George who work with him.

Goe's Automotive Sales was a used car dealership from 1960 to 1964 then became an International Harvester dealer because, "International was the only one you could get without a showroom."

Since then parts, service and sales have been "a hobby and a profession."

"When you're in business you have to do all things including buying parts and preparing the books for the accountant," he added.

Goe thinks Valley shoppers prefer dealing with local merchants whenever possible and added being part of the community helps.

"Some once were part of the town but have taken big names and lost their identity," he said.

Many of his customers, he said, "Go see Goe and don't even know I have a first name."

When pressed he said it was, "Thornley, but I don't use it much."

Profile

This is part of a continuing series profiling Valley business people who have provided the same service for at least two decades.

'Officially fired' says SR politician

SAN RAMON — San Ramon postal carrier Richard Collins violated the Hatch Act when he ran for the presidency last year while a federal employe, the three - member U.S. Civil Service Commission has ruled.

A Commission spokesman phoned Collins yesterday from Washington, D.C. and said the Alcosta Boulevard resident would be placed on 90 days suspension without pay.

"They have officially fired me. They knew I would quit," Collins told The Times yesterday.

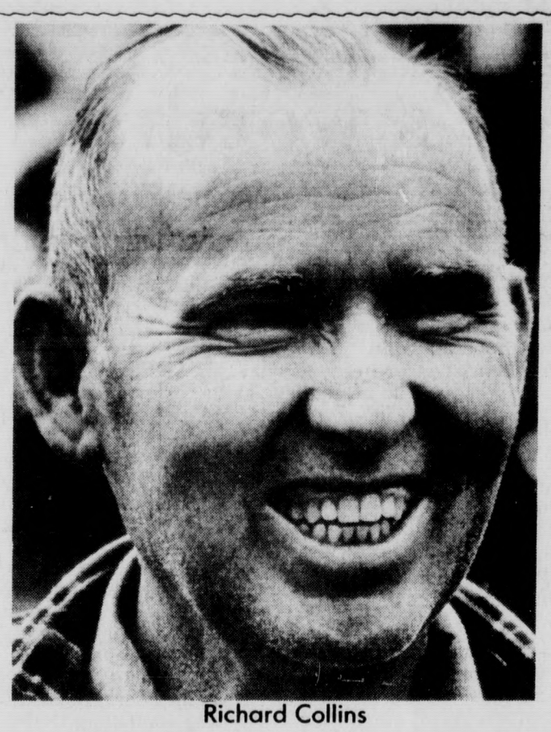
He referred to a May 29 letter to CSC Chairman Alan Campbell in which he said any sentence but acquittal or termination "would force me to resign and draw out my retirement benefits to tide me over until I could find other employement."

Collins said he would quit his job today and continue his crusade, but would appeal the decision within the next 15 days as required. If the decision is reversed, he said he would file suit to recover any back wages due him.

Presidential politics allowed former President Gerald Ford to use government property (jets, phones, office space) to further his bid for reelection, Collins argues, while he was not given the same opportunity. This, he said, gives the incumbent a clear edge during a campaign.

Once elected, a president should be forced to resign from the political party that helped him win the office, Collins says. Otherwise, he might owe political favors to fatcats or others that helped him get elected.

"Ford did it (campaigned) for selfish gain — personal and political favors — and he's being honored. My intentions are honorable, his were base, and yet I'm fired and he's honored," Collins lamented yesterday.



Richard Collins

He will bring a civil suit against Ford hoping to win back a proportionate amount of damages, possibly including removal of Ford's pensions and staff, if the government takes no action against the former president, Collins said.

"I have forfeited my well-being for the nation," Collins said. "I'm glad to do it. I want to make this a better country and the presidency a better office."

BART valley rep pleased in Senate's tax turndown

BART's Valley representative, Robert Allen of Livermore, was happy yesterday that the state Senate headed off a bill to make the BART half per cent sales tax a permanent one.

The amendment, by Sen. Milton Marks of San Francisco, extends the BART tax only to June 30, 1980.

A permanent tax is the wrong way to go for two reasons, Allen said. One is that as it stands now, 75 per cent goes to BART, but the other 25 per cent goes to AC Transit and San Francisco Municipal Railway. The latter two are not in Allen's district, so he doesn't want to see them subsidized with the money. BART should have all of it.

The second reason Allen opposes the tax is his philosophy that the people in the three BART counties should vote to see if they even want the tax. If they do, fine; they can always repeal it if they wish in the future, said Allen.

But if voters nix the tax, that's all right, too, he said. BART won't shrivel up and blow away. The state could add an ad valorem tax, tied to the price of your car, which you would pay each year when you renew your auto license and the revenue could pay for BART, said Allen.

That way people who could afford to pay more would do so and those who can afford less would not have to pay as much, said Allen.

Allen's sentiment is not shared by most BART directors. They have instructed their Sacramento lobbyists to advocate McCarthy's permanent tax bill. Marks' amendment is due for reconsideration soon, and if it is reversed, the permanent tax would go on to Governor Brown for his signature.

Sen. John Holmdahl, who represents the Valley, voted for Marks' amendment.

Allen hits 'agency shop' pact terms

OAKLAND — Robert S. Allen's philosophical objections to the "agency shop" union among BART police officers caused him to vote against an otherwise uncontroversial ratification of a contract with the union yesterday.

The BART directors voted 6-2 to grant a 13 per cent pay and cost of living package to the police officers, who all returned to work yesterday. Their union ratified the pact previously.

Allen thought the contract was a good one, but he objects to the fact that even police officers who don't belong to the union must pay the equivalent of dues to the union. It's called an "agency shop" and Allen thinks it robs the non - union officers of their individual freedoms.

"A union should be free and independent; it should be a voluntary association," said Allen. "I can't see forcing employes, especially those in public jobs, to join a union or pay dues to one."

PG&E cutbacks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For the first time since the drought started, Pacific Gas & Electric Co. asked customers Thursday to reduce electrical use at a specific time to avoid power outages.

Customers were asked to cut back on electrical use between noon and 7 p.m. — the normal peak period of use — because power reserves were reduced to a critical level, according to John S. Cooper, PG&E manager of energy conservation.

Cooper blamed the current heat wave for the shortages.

Customers were asked to raise thermostat settings on air conditioners, stop using nonessential appliances — such as dishwashers, televisions and vacuums — and reduce water use.

Cooper said the power reserve dipped to five per cent of the total power available.

The loss of a single generating unit, he said, could have caused "serious problems."

The plea marked the first time the utility asked customers to cut back during a specific period of time.

During a heat wave in June 1976, electricity was cut off for one day to "interruptables" — industrial users who pay a lower rate with the understanding power could be cut off.

Area solons differ on tax bill future

SACRAMENTO — Local legislators disagree on the prospects of agreement for a major property tax reform measure currently tied up in a joint Senate - Assembly conference committee.

Assemblyman Floyd Mori (D-Pleasanton) emerged at a noon break yesterday and told an aide he was "much more optimistic" on the possibility of settlement before the Sept. 15 legislative adjournment than he was previously.

But Senator John Holmdahl (D-Castro Valley), the committee chairman, said, "I don't think anybody would want to bet very much" on the outlook for agreement. He termed the attempt "this lost mission."

Last Friday the state Senate passed a major school financing measure but defeatpd a proposed property tax reform bill. The school financing measure awaits Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s signature.

The defeated propetrty tax bill would have provided homeowners and renters with $835 million in tax rebates.

Committee members will continue to confer on a possible compromise right up to the Sept. 15 deadline.

LAVWMA severs Zone 7 tie in water study

LIVERMORE — The Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) last night voted 5 to 1 to exclude Zone 7 as a joint sponsor in a valleywide waste water reclamation and reuse study.

LAVWMA, coordinating the $38 million sewage disposal project, decided it would be expedient to accept a state grant offer that would finance the study.

Zone 7 (Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation Dist.) requested joint sponsor status as the Valley's water wholesaler, a county agency set up to purchase water from the state and sell it to Livermore, Pleasanton and the Valley Community Services District. It also constructs flood control channels, maintains reservoirs and is responsible for the Valley's vast undergroundd water reserve.

A liaison committee including representatives of both agencies had urged that joint sponsor status be granted so old wounds between the two bodies could heal.

But LAVWMA, the water management agency composed of two members each from Livermore, Pleasanton and VCSD, cited the current state offer of grant funding as in the best interest of the Valley.

LAVWMA chairman Chuck Ladner chided those persons who "talk about one valley, when we can't get two (valley) agencies to agree."

Livermore Mayor Helen Tirsell, a LAVWMA member, said she was not comfortable that the two agencies had a single goal in mind.

The study would examine the consequences of reclaiming waste water, treating it and using the end product to irrigate agricultural land or for other industrial applications.

Altamont dump action awaits San Leandro transfer station vote

Once San Leandro resolves the issue of whether or not to build a garbage transfer station, the Alameda County Solid Waste Management Committee can vote on whether there will be a garbage dump in the Altamont.

The committee was due to vote on the item last week, but a protest by San Leandro residents near the site of the proposed transfer station is holding up the whole process.

The transfer station has other enemies, spread around the county, in the form of environmentalists.

They don't want to see the Altamont dump built because they think it will discourage the county from recycling waste. If the dump is there, everything will go into it, the ecologists fear. The Livermore City Council has taken that position, as exemplified by its representative on the commmittee, Council Member Glenn Dahlbacka.

As is sometimes the case in the Valley's "Tale of Two Cities" on environmental questions, Pleasanton has been, if not on the other side of the question, at least neutral. Pleasanton Council Member Ken Mercer thinks that state mandates for recycling, to be imposed on the county by 1981, will be enough to get the Oakland Scavengers and the public doing the right thing environmentally.

And since the Oakland Scavengers own the land in the Altamont and already had county zoning approval for a dump there prior to new state waste guidelines, they ought to be able to build it, Mercer feels.

Dahlbacka also objects that the Altamont dump, though safe for the Valley's groundwater basin, will bring environmental pollution to the Valley in the form of more truk traffic across Interstate 580.

Instead, he hopes that most of the south county garbage can go to Alameda which has a grant to investigate the feasibility of burning garbage and converting the energy to electricity.

An environmental group called PACE claims that the Altamont Dump, because of capital costs involved, would cost garbage rate payers in west and north county more money in the long run.

The group figures that residential rates would rise between $1.04 to $1.37 with the proposed dump.

But if the ecological plan combining three elements is used, the rates would rise only 50 to 66 cents, the group said.

The three elements in the ecologists' plan include reduction at the source (reycling) 20 per cent of materials; energy recovery (the garbage into electricity plan) 50 per cent; and transferring the remaining 30 per cent to the Vasco Road dump which would have plenty of capacity to handle that amount of the total, they said.

Canal doubts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has Latin American backing for the new Panama Canal treaty, but the support of the American people and Congress is still in doubt.

After the colorful treaty-signing ceremony, attended by 27 visiting leaders, the spotlight is focusing on opponents of the pact.

Two long-time foes of relinquishing control of the waterway planned to argue their case today before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on separation of powers: former California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa.

LLL's role

This week the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory looks back on 25 years of productivity from that local base. It is an anniversary that brings profound impact on all 120,000 residents within this basin, and for millions more across this nation and around our world.

There are some who see nuclear power, from whatever source and for whatever purpose, as evil. Those of us who have lived with the laboratories at Livermore for these past 25 years, and for almost that same time with General Electric's Vallecitos Nuclear Center, see rather the impact of a major industry, thousands of jobs, millions in payroll.

It is also from these nuclear research centers that we gained the genesis of suburban sophistication which is the goal of most emerging communities, but the reality of few. On that point alone, the Lab's local neighbors would be willing to salute the LLL in this, its 25th year.

Development of nuclear power is not however some community venture. The need for new sources of energy, and regrettably for new weapons of defense, is national, it is international, and it is critical. The nuclear scientists have a challenge to meet, a duty to perform.

We who live in the shadow of the Livermore Lab have a challenge of our own ... to prove to the world that there can be, has been, peaceful, responsible coexistence with nuclear power, and with the people who develop it.

Brown vs. biz

Remember that Dow Chemical plant which everyone, right on up to Governor Brown, was fighting to retain on a Solano County site despite the onslaught from various environmental protection agencies? Turns out now that Governor Brown is "very happy" that this "multinational corporation which poisons people" is not coming to California after all.

That at least is the message our governor left with a mix of union people and environmentalists who gathered for Labor Day festivities at the County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton .

In a shocking departure from his "we're working hard to build a better business climate" posture of recent months, Governor Brown has apparently resolved to turn the adversity of Dow Chemical's departure to the triumph of organized labor over "the multinational corporations that don't want economic justice for all workers..."

Brown would convince his labor audience that California's failure to win Dow's $500 million investment in our state is a good thing. To prove this, he cites the California - based Miller Brewing Company (organized) over the Nevada - based Coors Brewery (not organized) as another fine example of this inverted economic success.

We think the governor's brain is inverted. He has always had the knack of saying just the right thing to the proper audience; now he thinks he can tell one group one thing and another group an entirely different story, while keeping both audiences thrilled at his message.

Trouble is, news media like this one are apt to write about both Jerry Browns, and that's a Jekyll and Hyde act which stopped fooling most of us kids years ago.

The inner city

Supervisor John George has released to the East Bay press his impassioned plea for broad public acceptance of Oakland as "a valuable resource ... its health effects the well being of the entire metropolitan area."

The supervisor goes on to point out that eighty percent of new single family housing in recent years has gone to the suburbs. He did not add that many services, most particularly retail stores, have followed that flight to the suburbs.

We share Mr. George's concern for Oakland, and for all of the Inner Cities. It profits none of us to see these core areas deteriorate, their people suffer, their property values wasted.

It was from this same concern that Supervisor George, a black man, rejected the argument that Las Positas New Town on the fringe of Livermore would provide new low - cost housing opportunities for Oakland's families.

"We need rather to rebuild Oakland first," he said.

Slow it down

Editor, The Times:

What happened to the slogan "slow down and live"?

This past week a few deaths have occurred on both Stanley Blvd. and Niles Canyon — both of which are having work done to the road. ...

So we have drivers speeding along usually over the posted speed limit and if they don't end up in an accident themselves they have been the cause of someone else's accident, some fatal.

Murrieta between Olivina and Stanley is another roadway not clearly lined. Cars drift over the dull lines and end up either as near misses or a collision with an approaching vehicle.

So come on Everyone "Slow Down" and those associated with traffic control get out there and do your job; be it patrolling, posting new speed limit signs or painting the street lines — Please.

FOCUS/Valley transit

Money's worth?

Remember those plans for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District rail line along Highway 580 linking the initial line and the Valley?

- . Well, they're still in existence but it'll be at least another five-year period before any dirt is turned on that long debated and planned rail tie to the metropolitan areas of Alameda and San Francisco counties.

BART will mark the anniversary of its first five years of service this Sunday. As those who were present that day in 1972 may remember, the initial line opened by BART was the Oakland-Fremont line.

We had the ocassion earlier this week to review BART's history, as seen through the eyes of George Silliman, the premiere board member in terms of length of service.

George is a resident of Newark and represented the interests of that area during his 17 years on the BART board.

It was largely through his efforts that the south county line was built all the way through to Fremont (as originally planned) and not just as far as Hayward.

As George recalled for us, that crucial 9-7 vote committed BART to laying rail into what is now the population center of Southern Alameda County.

But the interests of the Livermore and Amador and San Ramon valleys have not been served nearly as well— until the advent of BART feeder bus service.

Despite the efforts of the Livermore-Amador Valley BART Extension Committee, the transit interests of these communities have been largely unmet.

While it does not have the population of the Fremont-Union City-Newark south county hub, this Valley nonetheless has transportation needs, particularly amongst senior citizens and young people.

Perhaps what this Valley needs more than anything, in the realm of transportation, are "local" bus routes and weekend service.

Though the "U" and "D" lines seem more than adequate, they actually were set up to speed regular commuters to BART stations at Hayward, Walnut Creek and Bay Fair.

This overlooks the needs of the seniors, housewives, and young people who have transit needs within the Valley, whether it be from home to school, home to recreational area or home to work or shopping.

Until these needs are met, as they have been for some time in the Fremont-Newark-Union City area (including Dial-a-Ride service), we are transit "poor."

There appears to be a legitimate need for city and district officials to press the transit needs of Valley citizens to county and regional bodies— whether it be BART, AC, the Metropolitan Transportation Committee, and/or the Board of Supervisors.

We have not gotten our money's worth but yet we are asked to keep contributing to bale out transit organizations that stay mired in debt year after year.

Letters to the Times

New Town

Editor, The Times:

Since Gary Reiners and the city council are so concerned that the building of New Town will contribute to the problems of "urban decentralization," I would suggest that they move to the city. They could sell their houses to the young people who grew up in this valley and now find they cannot afford to live here.

Stark's bank

Editor, The Times:

I read with intprest the article (Sun. Trib. Sept. 4th) regarding Rep. Fortney H. (Pete) Stark, D-Oakland.

I have a question. If Rep. Stark is so concerned about "poverty-stricken East Oakland", why will he be involved with a new bank in Livermore instead of "poverty-stricken East Oakland."

City's dead bolts

Editor, The Times:

I see where "Big Brother" is at it again. This time they are about to pass a (Livermore) city ordinance requiring the home owner to insulate their home to meet R-19 standards before they can sell it. We already have the requirement for an attic fan and sometime back there was talk about mandatory deadbolt locks. I understand the seller is usually stuck for termite and dry rot inspection.

It is not denied that these items have merit. But they should be between the buyer and the seller. Action by a city government is not and should not be required for existing homes.

I have no objections for these requirements being mandatory for new construction or major remodeling involving roof structure.

I suggest everyone write the city council or call members of the council and express their own views on this matter.

Open up I-580

Editor, The Times:

The other day an article appeared on the front page of one of our local newspapers. The article indicated that Senator Holmdahl will be pushing for the full use of the about to be completed section of Hwy I-580.

I agree with his thinking and have written to everyone in local and state government expressing my sentiments in this regard. First of all let me say that I commute daily from Pleasanton to Oakland and return. It seems awfully stupid to me to spend a huge amount of money to construct a freeway and then limit its use to comply with the wishes of a "Club." Question is who runs the state government, the people or the special interest groups?

Of course people living and working in the Valley, who are in the minority, have no real concern about the situation. However, those of us who commute are a very concerned group. We fight the commute traffic daily and, by the way, bring in huge sums of money which is spent in the Valley.

The arguments against the full use of the freeway are as full of holes as swiss cheese. Four lanes each way from Dublin east to Hwy. 5 and 99 vs two from Dublin to the Eastbay is totally illogical.

I say let's open up the new section of Hwy I-580 to its fullest extent, break the bottle neck, and get our moneys worth.

The Lab police

Editor, The Times:

Some light, focusing on the news releases from the laboratory management, concerning the sick-out and some clarification from my view. The laboratory P.R. person has made statement of 'luxury' and chances to relocate.

... Most police officers are an expensive luxury, until the need for police action rises. The same with fire, nursing and so forth. Yet we were retained at a frozen rate of pay, with no possibility of an increase of any sort, until the new hires (hired at a much lesser rate) reached our top level. This would never take place. ... Therefore the across the board substantial increase that puts their increase two cents per hour above our top level, we consequently, were raised to their level to make the department level, equal. ...

This arbitrary decision to remove and freeze police patrolmen, by what reasoning, has caused bitterness — frustration and a serious knock to the individual ego. A sick-out should not be hard to understand, it is a form of protest ...

As to the stay or relocate 'opportunity,' this was pretty much of a farce, from the start, numerous officers can and would testify to this personally. Most were to old for other police departments, those that could made it out of here, some new hires are still moving on. ...

We have gone to the legislature three years running (Assemblyman Mori) their feeling is that no 'new' police units need recognition at this time, not realizing we were not a new group, most of us at least fifteen to twenty years of exemplary duty.

Perhaps bitterness does prevail, with cause, when a person, arbitrarily or not, is forced to change his or her lifestyle or career just prior to the time of retirement, bitterness, frustration and general don't give a hang attitudes will prevail.

round the town

As noted in this column previously, 1977 has not been a good year for news.

Not just good news. But any news. Good or bad. A terrible drought, overall.

This has been particularly hard on the TV networks. NBC, CBS, ABC etc. all rely on a fresh flow of news each day to fill that 90 minutes of prime time early evening viewing. Take away the fresh flow of daily news, and you take away much of those 90 minutes. You also take away advertising income at a $100,000 - per - minute clip. Not even the TV networks can afford that, for very long.

Fortunately, TV's News is nothing if it is not innovative. It is not the news content which concerns the TV nets so much as it is the news package. Not what they tell us, but rather how they tell it. This is the standard of electronic excellence which brought Barabara Walters to ABC. It is the same standard that keeps Wally Cronkite's hair combed just so. Or that removes the bags from David Brinkley's eyes after a troubled evening.

The TV moguls ... those who do their moguling on the top floor ... long ago decreed that "the people who deliver our news must look bright (although not too bright); they must look happy (but never giddy); and they must always look positive (even when all the news is negative as hell)."

If that sounds simple, you should try recruiting new bodies to deliver telecast news ... bodies that meet those tough standards.

"We need a new body to deliver the evening news," says N.B. Ceed, president of one of the larger networks, "and I want you recruiters to bring me in all of the American adults over the age of reason who are bright, happy and positive." Two weeks later and the recruiters come in with four prospects, one of whom is a deaf mute.

"In all of these United States I cannot believe you can find only four people over the age of reason who are bright, happy and positive," N.B. Ceed says, angrily.

His recruiters explain that it is not easy to find many adult Americans who meet those standards, which is why ABC recruited Barbara Walters for a couple of mil.

After checking out the four TV News prospects very carefully, N.B. Ceed finally makes a decision: "We will go with the deaf mute!" he declares, happily. "That way we will thrill all the deaf and dumb TV viewers throughout this land, and we will also get those critics off our back who keep insisting we hire more minorities. Who can be more minor than a deaf mute?"

And, since no one on N.B. Ceed's staff can rebut their boss's logic, the deaf mute is hired as anchorperson for the Evening News.

Meanwhile, this brilliant stroke is not overlooked by CBS, which quickly arranges for their anchorperson, one Wally Cronkite, to be named "Honorary Commodore with the United States Coast Guard." And if you have to ask "What has being an Honorary Commodore got to do with a TV Evening Anchorperson's ratings?", then it just proves that you know even less about electronic news than the anchor moguls thought.

"But," C.B. Mogul asserts, in a meeting of his network's high priests, "let it never be said that our anchorpersons think of themselves as some sort of high priests." And so, it is decreed, henceforth John Chancellor and David Brinkley will deliver their Evening News from easy chairs ... "To give our viewers that easy feeling," as one CBS - TV mogul explained.

Fear not that the price of coffee has doubled, that the Arabs are bombing Israel which in turn is invading Iran, via Rhodesia. The world's troubles trouble not the Evening Anchorperson, , not when Joe E.A. Cool can swivel around in that easy chair and advise you ... "Good evening. Things are looking bright, happy and positive in Israel where the Jews are bombing hell out of the Arabs again..."

"So what about the newspapers?", you ask. "Aren't you print guys just as guilty of glossing over the news with a lot of nonsense like bosomy gals falling into tubs of water?"

True, but only when bosomy girls are also falling into page one space that is left when there is absolutely no news to fill that hole. Which, as noted earlier, has occured often, in 1977, the year of No News.

You should stop by sometime and see my new easy chair. A non - newsperson can sit there on a clear day and see nothing whatsoever. Which is what much news reporting is all about, when you get right down to it.

Anyone for a game of Moguls?

EARL WATERS

Campaigning

Editor, The Times:

Grabbing headlines, the state's political "reform" agency, the Fair Political Practices Commission, issued its premiere report on lobbying. It covered the first two years of its "policing" of the activities of lawmakers and those who watchdog legislative proposals.

In tone, the report, by its title and the press release which accompanied it, was a contradiction of the high purposes claimed by the proponents of the initiative measure which brought the commission into being. They had said they sought to restore confidence in government.

Yet, the commission, now headed by the initiative's chief author and proponent, Daniel Lowenstein, authorized the title "$40 million to influence California government".

Technically the designation is probably right although it is inflammatory and distortive of the motives of those who spend their money to gain input in the legislative process. For the word "influence" has a sinister connotation whereas all that most groups represented by lobbyists seek to do is to openly exercise their right to participate in government by having their viewpoints heard.

Futhermore, the $40 million represented lobbyist expenditures over a full two years and covered mostly salaries and office overhead. Against that, during the same period, auditing of lobbyists accounts and other aspects of the reform act have cost the state more than $8 million while the Legislature spent over $100 million on itself.

The press release attempts to balloon the importance of the lobby spending by singling out 156 of the more than 600 lobbyists, reporting them as showing total receipts of $40,000 or more for the two years. This, the release claims, shows "Legislative advocacy proved to be a lucrative business".

Maybe so, but the real truth is that it was not nearly as rewarding for most lobbyists as it was for the chief reformer, Lowenstein, who drew in excess of $85,000 in compensation during the same period. All but 50 of the 600 lobbyists not only reported two year totals below that amount but most showed receipts of less than half that which Lowenstein was paid.

The report contains pages of "detailed" expenditures by lobbysits "treating" state officials. These long lists of trivial amounts indicate the total spent by all lobbyists on any single official didn't average much more than $200 for the two year period. So the report may be correct in stating expenditures were "on a considerably reduced scale than existed prior to" passage of the reform act. Still, since there was no detailed reporting before that time it is pure supposition and most observers contend that, excepting for a few, most lobbyists, as the records now show, didn't have a lot of money to spend.

The references to some of Sacramento's leading restaurants as "watering holes" could only be intended to continue to excite the suspicions about politicians which surrounded the passage of the act. The observation that the dining places "are still surviving under the restrictions" and that "lobbyists and officials are still found to gather in such traditional spots" proves nothing but the desire of the commission to justify its existence.

The bottom line is Lowenstein's statement that "the report does not reveal any unusual or improper lobbying activities". Those who opposed creation of the costly commission predicted such a result. They pointed out that no one ever voluntarily admits to taking or giving a bribe and that adequate laws existed to deal with those who were caught in such illegal acts before the "reform" law was ever thought of.

What is glaringly missing from the report is any record of the vast sums spent by state government, including the governor, in putting pressures on the Legislature to force the administration's will on the people. Lobbyists for state government, you see, don't come under the act and don't have to register or report their spending.

Berry's World

"When I had it, they wouldn't let us flaunt it!"

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm happily married yet when I have sex with my husband, I'm sometimes dreaming of another man. I wouldn't tell him this because I know he'd be hurt and wildly jealous, but I wonder what this means. I worry about it. Do other women ever do this? Am I being unfaithful mentally? I don't think I'd ever have extramarital affairs, except in daydreams. — M.O'C.

DEAR M.O'C.: Don't worry about your dream life. It doesn't mean you're unhappy with your marriage or that you have a secret longing to escape. It does mean you have an active imagination and there's nothing wrong with that. Studies reveal that a majority of married women indulge in fantasies during intercourse. Fantasies tend to increase desire rather than indicate sexual or marital difficulty.

Some women admit to sometimes dreaming of an imaginary lover, some always mentally substitute someone else for their husband, a former boyfriend, movie star or just a handsome stranger seen on the street. This could reflect a desire for another partner, but it doesn't always mean this.

It does not indicate a negative attitude about sex. Women who have a lot of sexual fantasies also tend to daydream a lot outside the bedroom.

Other women do daydream when they're having sexual relations with their husbands and this can't be classified as infidelity. Your fantasizing doesn't mean you're unhappy. It may even add to your marital contentment.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: For any of your readers who might be interested, I'd just like to say that I think a lot of women have been brainwashed into believing that when they get to be middle - aged life just wilts away. I was told that when the kids grow up and leave, the marriage often falls apart and women go into a bleak period of depression. Well, my last youngster's just gone off to college and I feel great. I never felt better, in fact. I love my sex life which, incidentally, is still with my husband and I'm going to go back to school, which I've always ached to do. What is all that nonsense about empty - nest blues? It's empty - nest heaven for me. — Y.V.

DEAR Y.V.: You're lucky, and I agree that for many women, the so - called empty - nest syndrome doesn't exist. Many modern women experience a sense of relief when the responsibilities of raising their family have diminished and they can turn back to themselves and their own interests without a feeling of guilt.

This is still an individual matter, however. Some women who make the mistake of living through their children and investing all of themselves into being a wife and mother, do fall apart when the kids leave home. It's the women who count on their children to make their lives interesting who suffer most. Their children also suffer because the burden is unfair and too heavy to carry without resentment.

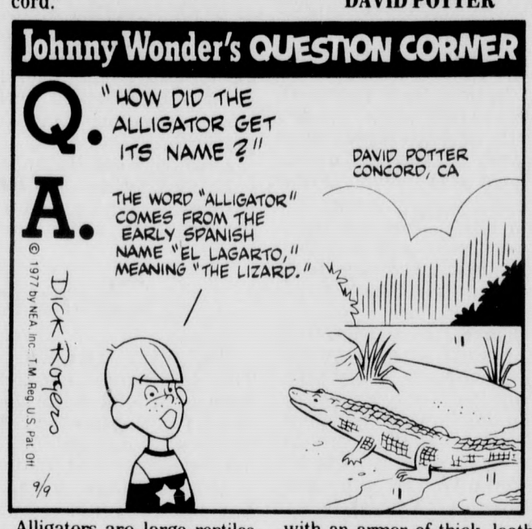
Potter Asks Alligator Question

DAVID POTTER

Today's Johnny Wonder question — How did the alligator get its name? — was submitted by a Concord boy, eight-year-old David Potter, son of David and Ingrid Potter, 4488 Stone Canyon Road.

Potter, who says he reads "Johnny Wonder" on The Times comics page "whenever I can," is a third grade student at Highlands Elementary School, Concord.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "HOW DID THE ALLIGATOR GET ITS NAME?"
A. THE WORD "ALLIGATOR" COMES FROM THE EARLY SPANISH NAME "EL LAGARTO," MEANING "THE LIZARD."

Alligators are large reptiles related to the crocodile. They resemble lizards in their shape.

The early Spanish explorers, mistaking the reptile for a large lizard, called it "el largarto," meaning "the lizard." The name changed in time to our modern word "alligator."

The American alligator lives in the swamps, rivers and lakes of the southeastern United States.

The great body, covered with an armor of thick, leathery scales, may grow to be 12 feet or longer and weigh more than 400 pounds. The huge powerful tail serves to drive the animal through the water.

Alligators are meat eaters. They eat fish, snakes and turtles, and any other small animal they can catch. They will even attack dogs or deer that come to the water's edge to drink.

But unless frightened, even the largest alligator will usually leave people alone.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — When I was in college I had an abortion. I'm Rh negative and my boyfriend was Rh positive. I had the operation in my sixth week with no complications.

Now about five years later my husband who is Rh negative and I are interested in starting a family. I'm concerned about the effect of the abortion on a future pregnancy.

Is there any reason I should consult a doctor before we start trying for a child? If so, what could be done?

DEAR READER — You've got a lot going for you. An Rh negative mother may develop a sensitivity to Rh positive blood of the baby but the baby has to be Rh positive and the sensitization doesn't start until the baby is about two months along. If you had an abortion at six weeks that should be too early to sensitize you. Incidentally, in pregnancies that have gone longer and end in an abortion, even if it is spontaneous, the doctor can give an Rh immune globulin within 72 hours and help to protect the woman from developing the sensitivity.

Now for the really good news. We all have two genes to determine whether we are Rh positive or negative. The Rh positive gene is dominant. That means that anyone who tests out as Rh negative has two Rh negative genes and cannot transmit anything but Rh negative genes. So if you and your husband are both Rh negative neither of you can transmit Rh positive genes and all of your children will be Rh negative. In that case you will not develop a reaction to any of them. The problem only occurs when the baby is Rh positive and the mother is Rh negative.

Any woman who is Rh negative should be certain about her husband's blood type. If there is any chance at all that the husband has Rh positive genes the doctors can be prepared to treat the mother at delivery if she has an Rh positive baby to protect her from becoming sensitized.

Don't give up on things in which you've invested your time, talent and money. These will pay off this coming year, not flash-in-the-pan-type activities

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Friendship could be jeopardized if you take it for granted. Under no conditions speak for a pal without his or her consent. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Look toward the future optimistically, but also be realistic. Before you embark on any new projects, be sure you assess all the probabilities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Show only your best side to the public today. Any out-of-character actions could damage the image you want to project.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Save yourself some embarrassment today. Don't pretend to know something that you really don't. A challenge could make you look very foolish.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be careful who you assign to handle your business affairs today. Put the wrong person in the driver's seat and you'll end up with egg on your face.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Both you and your mate are more edgy than you realize today. Some inconsequential word or action could cause a spontaneous flare-up.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) "Safety First" is always a sound rule. This is particularly important to you if using new or unfamiliar equipment.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't spring any sudden changes that disrupt family routine today. You'll get everybody rattled with your disregard for their feelings.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You are not noted for making snap judgments, but you may do so to your own detriment today. Stick to your familiar pattern of moving cautiously.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take no financial risks today. Don't buy anything that is more novel than utilitarian. Your yardstick should be predicated on a practical scale.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A misunderstanding could arise between you and a friend today over something silly. Quash it before a foolish barrier is erected.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) Your timing could be off today regarding when and how to close a deal. You can rectify this by being aware that "when" is just as important as "how."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The trump echo is a method of signalling by the defense to give partner a count on the number of trumps held. Specifically, the echo or play of high low in trumps shows possession of a third trump, the normal trump play shows two or four.

Assuming that West gets off to the lead of his singleton six of hearts, the trump echo makes it easy to defeat the nearly ironclad spade game.

East wins the first trick with the ace of hearts and leads back a heart. West ruffs and shifts to his deuce of diamonds.

South tops East's king with the ace and leads his nine of trumps. East is in with the ace for the third defensive trick and has to decide between the lead of a heart for partner to ruff and the lead of a diamond that would go to partner's queen assuming partner held that nice card.

The trump echo tells East that there is no guess. West ruffs the first heart with the four and follows to the first trump lead with his three spot to show three trumps. East gives his partner a ruff and everyone is happy except North and South.

Valleyview's First Anniversary rites

DUBLIN — On Sunday, Sept. 11, the Valleyview Church will have conducted worship services for one year in the Dublin area. The young church meets in the multi-purpose room of the Nielsen Elementary School.

"One year ago, we met in the parsonage living room. We had fourteen persons present, which included four couples, five children and one teen," states the Rev. Arthur L. Carl, pastor.

Since that small beginning, the church has grown, now ministering to 25 families, representing 65 persons.

Pastor Carl states "It has not been our magnetic personalities ... God has brought people to us." The pastor further stated that the church has tried to make use of effective advertising also. This has helped.

"We are a warmly evangelical church. We believe in being 'born again' " explains Pastor Carl, "and living changed lives. People aren't interested in anything phoney these days. They want real Christian living or nothing at all."

Rev. Carl feels the approach of Valleyview is unique. Valleyview is sponsored by the Free Methodist Church, yet people from all kinds of denominations come to us and feel comfortable ... We are just Christians who love Christ and each other." says the pastor.

The church serves the whole valley, and has goals for the future which include the serving of 50 families by the end of this year, and the eventual development of over 13 acres of land at the top of Betlen Drive in Dublin to accomodate 1000 persons.

First Anniversary festivities will be held on Sunday, Sept. 11, at the Nielsen School, 7500 Amarillo Rd. at 10a.m. Dr. Mark W. Lee, President of Simpson College in San Francisco, will speak.

At 7 p.m. the John W. Peterson cantata, "Love and Kindness" will be presented by the sanctuary choir of the Corralitos Community Church located near Watsonville. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Women's luncheon

PLEASANTON — Livermore-Amador Valley Christian Women's Club cordially invites the public to a luncheon at Castlewood Country Club, Castlewood Drive exit from Highway 680, on Wednesday, Sept. 4, 12 noon to 2 p.m.

A special feature of the luncheon is a talk by Tricia Kloverstrom of Pleasanton about the "Ins and Outs" of macrame. Mrs. Judy Squier, a home maker and speech therapist, who was born without lower limbs, will give an inspirational talk: "A Walk That Changed Her Life."

There will also be special music, and free nursery at the Presbyterian Church, 100 Neal St.

Rosh Hashanah

LIVERMORE — Members of Congregation Beth Emek, College and M Streets, will usher in the Jewish year 5738 at Rosh Hashenah services Monday, September 12, at 8 p.m.

Rabbi Bernard Robinson, formerly with the Richmond, Ca. congregation, will officiate at the Jewish High Holy Day services. Following evening services, there will be an oneg yom tov. Martha Priebat is chairman.

Rosh Hashenah day services will begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday, September 13. A children's service will take place at 2 p.m. Orthodox, conservative and Israeli Jews observe Rosh Hashanah for two days and reform Jews for one day.

Rosh Hashanah, Day of Judgement, starts the beginning of the Ten Days of Penitence, which ends with the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur, a solemn day of fasting. Rosh Hashanah always falls on the first day of the seventh Jewish lunar month of Tishri and means "head of the year" or new year. During this time, the ten days, Jews ask for a sweet year and that they and their loved ones be inscribed in the Book of Life for a good year.

The festive evening holiday meal is begun by dipping an apple or any other fruit the family has not eaten for a year in honey. Round challah, a braided Jewish bread, is served to symbolize an unbroken, good year. For details call Jerry Priebat at 447-7923 or Asher Blum at 455-5360.

'A blast of horns, a holy convocation', a new year

NEW YORK (AP) — The sound is piercing, soul-stirring, powerful. It comes from the shofar, Hebrew for ram's horn, the world's oldest wind instrument. Three blasts from it mark the start of the Jewish high holy days.

"A memorial proclaimed with a blast of horns, a holy convocation," says Leviticus 23:24.

The observance begins at sunset Monday with Rosh Hashana, Hebrew for the "beginning of the year," the first part of the "10 days of awe" culminating on Sept. 22 with the day of atonement, Yom Kippur.

It's a time of self-examination, repentence for past wrongs and rededication to a more righteous future, individually and for all humanity.

"O Lord our God ... gather all thy children around thy banner of truth that thy name may be hallowed ... and the entire human family may be blessed with truth and peace," goes a prayer for the services.

Although Rosh Hashana, calculated by the old Jewish lunar calendar, marks the legendary 5738th year since creation, the occasion is celebrated not as a chronological measuring point, but a "new year" of conscience.

It summons people "to spiritual regeneration," Rabbi Walter S. Wurzburger, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, representing the Orthodox wing of Judaism, said in a message for the observance.

Rabbi Ely E. Pilchik, president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, an arm of Reform Judaism, said human life itself is the major concern of the observance this time because of modern downgrading of life's "sanctity and dignity."

Rabbi Stanley Rabinowitz, president of the Rabbinical Assembly, an arm of Conservative Judaism, said the high holy days "help the worshipper deal with feelings of guilt."

Besides taking stock of past faults and contrition for them, believers seek forgiveness not only of themselves but to forgive those who have wronged them and commitment to a better future.

"Help us to understand," goes a prayer, "that injustice and hate will not forever afflict the sons of men; that righteousness and mercy will triumph in the end."

Although it is a solemn, deeply introspective period, it also includes traditional songs of joy and hopes for a "sweet" year ahead, symbolized by home meals featuring a bit of bread or apple dipped in honey.

But it is the blowing of that shofar that expresses the soulsearing keynote. Over the centuries that sound has signaled various meanings — a call to battle, a plea to God to remember humanity, an alarm to rouse man from moral indolence, the tearing away of the old year through penitence and forgiveness and a new start.

Jewish tradition says that on Rosh Hashana, humanity's fate for the coming year is written down and that it is sealed 10 days later on Yom Kippur.

"L'shonoh to 'voh ti-ko-seyvu," goes a holiday greeting. "May you be inscribed for a good year."

Christian Women's banquet

WALNUT CREEK — The Bay Area Christian Women's Clubs invite you to enjoy "September Silhouettes", a banquet for all interested men and women to be held Friday, September 16, at 8 p.m.. The Boundary Oak Restraurant, 3800 Valley Vista Road, Walnut Creek, will be the setting.

Special music for the evening will be presented by the Covenant Four, an outstanding musical group from San Francisco.

Heifer Sunday

LIVERMORE — This Sunday Sept. 11 has designated Heifer Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church.

The church has elected to support Heifer Project International as their major Mission thrust for the year, and in support of theis, the Rev. Bill Beck, Western Region Director for the Project, will preach at the 10:30 a.m. worship service.

His sermon title is "Love Is A Glass Of Milk." He will seek to deal with hunger and show how Heifer Project is a Christian response to the problem of world hunger.

He will also be speaking to the children before they leave for the classroom at 10:45 a.m. and he will be available after the worship service to answer additional questions. The Sanctuary Choir will sing at this service.

Stunning film series shown

LIVERMORE — The Rev. Roger Lewis of the First Baptist Church of Livermore announced the showing of the 10-episode film series "How Should We Then Live?"

The films will be shown each Sunday evening at 6 p.m., beginning Sept. 18. This outstanding series was written by and features Dr. Francis Schaeffer whom Time magazine called "a missionary to the intellectuals."

In the series, Dr. Schaeffer poses some very pertinent questions: Why isn't it safe to walk our streets at night? Why is there more violence on one hand and an ever increasing authoritarianism on the other? What is happening to our accepted human freedoms? Should we throw up our hands and give in? If not...how should we then live?

After 40 years of intense study and world-wide ministry, this filmed series, the crowning work of Dr. Schaeffer's scholarship, presents profound truths in simple film language. It is an analysis of the past, yet it is more than history.

Each episode, while focusing on a significant era, speaks clearly to 20th century man giving answers for modern problems, providing a unique opportunity for a comprehensive study in man's only hope, a return to God's Biblical absolutes ... the truth revealed in Christ through the scriptures, according to Rev. Lewis.

"How Should We Then Live?" was two and a half years in the making. It was produced by Gospel Films Inc. of Muskegon, Michigan, and was filmed on more than 100 locations in 12 countries.

Christianity Today calls this film series "the finest documentary presentation of Christian truth ever produced in motion pictures."

Literacy's new home

LIVERMORE — The new home of Livermore Life Center, which helps those who need literacy help, will be at the Trinity Baptist Church, 460 Livermore Ave. The hours are the same: Tuesday and Friday mornings, 9 to 11:30 a.m., with babysitting provided.

Sept. 9 is the starting date for the new location. Anyone wishing to visit and learn more about Laubach Literacy is welcome to visit.

There will be a CIHU Fellowship Lunch for women on Sept. 13. Bring a potluck and some hand work or ideas for a bazaar item.

Sept. 19, there will be a teachers' meeting, and an orientation for those wishing to learn to teach. Please call 443-0191 if you want more information.

As previously announced, there is a pot-luck picnic Sept. 11 to celebrate World Literacy Week, and honor Dr. Frank C. Laubach, whose birth date was Sept. 2. The picnic will be at Mae Nissen Park, 1 to 5 p.m. Call 443-0191 or 443-3481 for further information.

Color expert at Christian luncheon

DUBLIN — Color consultant Jean Hunt of Sacramento will address a women's luncheon on Sept. 22 at 11:45 a.m. at Howard Johnson's in Dublin.

Mrs. Hunt has been personally trained by well-known Bay Area color consultant Don Cardwell. She has taught numerous classes on the subject at colleges and stores such as Liberty House.

She believes that color consciousness will give one a more objective view of oneself. Consultation sessions can enable one to gain new ideas on fabrics, textures and accessories that are in colors that are unique to the individual.

The Sept. 22 luncheon is sponsored by the Valley Christian Center's Women's Ministries division. Babysitting is provided. Call 828-4549 for reservations before Sept. 15.

Adventist school

LIVERMORE — Classes are now in session at Livermore Valley Seventh-Day Adventist School, 2828 Marina Ave., according to Kenneth Perrin, the new principal.

Perrin comes to Livermore from Napa, where he taught for the past ten years. He will teach grades 5 through 8. His wife, Clara Perrin, will teach grades 1 through 4.

Twenty one children are enrolled in the school, some from Adventist homes, others not. Perrin emphasized that all parents and their children who seek quality education are welcome.

The Adventist educational structure is the largest worldwide Protestant system, second only to the Lutheran in the U.S.

Christian Academy opens its doors

DUBLIN — Dublin - San Ramon Christian Academy, a ministry of the First Baptist Church of Dublin - San Ramon, has opened its doors with a 50 per cent increase in enrollment over the previous year. With the new staff and space, the Academy has room for 150 students.

The school uses a personalized, individually prescribed curriculum for students. After diagnostic and achievement testing, each student has a prescription based upon his or her actual performance level.

Each student is dealt with individually by concerned, dedicated Christian instructors especially trained in the Accelerated Christian Education (ACE) program.

The Rev. Terrence L. Huberty, Minister of Education and Principal, served as a pastor for almost six years before entering the Christian Education field. Prior to coming to the Dublin-San Ramon area in August 1976 to assume responsibility of the Academy, Rev. Hiberty served a school in Illinois in an administrative capacity.

Dr. Bill Whitaker, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, is the Superintendent of the Academy.

Valley Christian Church

LIVERMORE — "You Don't Have To Sink" is the topic of the Rev. Larry Trummel's Sermon during the 10:45 a.m. Worship Hour on Sunday, Sept. 11, at Valley Christian Church, 811 Marylin Ave.

Bible classes for all ages are available at 9:30 a.m. Sunday evening the monthly Board meeting starts at 6:30 p.m. and the High School youth group will meet at 7 p.m.

During the week there are opportunities for Bible study, prayer and sharing. Please call 447-6564 for additional information. The public is invited to attend.

Teen Challenge Film

PLEASANTON — Pleasanton Assembly issued a special invitation to the public today to attend the Premiere Showing of the latest Teen Challenge film, "The Jesus Factor", an outstanding documentary on the results of a Health Education and Welfare funded study of drug problems.

The film will be shown on Sunday, Sept. 11, at 6 p.m. at the church, in Pleasanton. Teen Challenge, as a result of the government study which showed that with the best doctors, psychologists and and analysts, plus millions of dollars, there was only a 2.6 per cent cure rate in drug addiction cases, demonstrates an 80 per cent cure rate with Jesus.

The Rev. Kenneth Shaw, District Director of Teen Challenge for the Northern California and Nevada District Council of the Assemblies of God, will be in the service to answer questions.

The film also features Charles Colson, former Presidential aide, and author of the book, "Born Again."

The public is invited to attend the service at the Pleasanton Assembly, 6656 Alisal St., on Sunday evening. Admission is free. Baby sitting service will also be provided.

Cooperative Pre-school

DUBLIN — The Resurrection Lutheran Co-operative Pre-school on Amador Valley Blvd., has a few openings in its classes which will begin on Sept. 12.

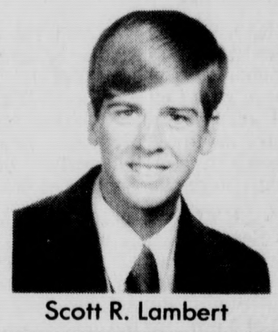
The three year old class meets on Tuesday and Thursday mornings, 9:30 to 12 noon, and the four year old class meets on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9:30 to 12 noon, with an afternoon session from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

For further information or to register please call Sue Yura, 828-4684 for the threes, and Jan Dale, 829-2420, for the fours.

Missionary returns after two years

PLEASANTON — Scott Lambert, son of Reed and Beth Lambert, returns on Sept. 14 from a two year mission to New England for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

As a missionary, Scott spent most of his time teaching people about Christianity and the tenets of his church. He describes the mission as being "the most fulfilling experience of my life."



Scott R. Lambert

He added that the opportunity to serve on a mission is a unique educational experience which will have a profound effect on the goals and aspirations he sets for the rest of his life, besides teaching him the importance of placing spiritual values over material values, and the joy that comes from serving our fellowmen.

Scott graduated from Amador Valley High School in 1974. He will attend Stanford University this fall and later plans a medical career.

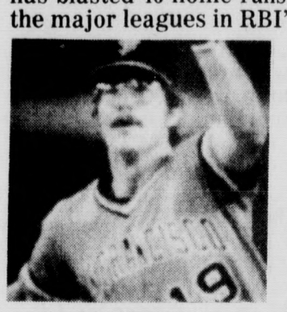
Are trades working out?

On Sports

When it comes to making trades the San Francisco Giants have been virtually a farm club for other major league teams in the past.

The Giants have traded away several players who went on to become stars for other teams, probably the most George Foster of the Reds probably the most notable example. At last glance, George has blasted 46 home runs for Cincinnati and leads the major leagues in RBI's.



Tim Foli

The Giants have also traded away the Alou brothers, Gaylord Perry and countless other players who have come back to haunt them.

Before this season San Francisco traded Chris Speier to Montreal for Tim Foli and Bobby Murcer to the Cubs in exchange for Bill Madlock.

When the Madlock-Murcer trade was announced most Giant fans were happy. They had reason to be. Madlock had led the National League in batting two straight years and at 24, appeared to have a solid claim as one of the majors' best hitters.

But as the season progessed San Francisco fans started having second thoughts. Murcer, who usually didn't start playing well for the Giants until the last month of the season, was driving in more RBI's and belting more home runs than Madlock.

And the Cubs were leading the National League's Eastern Division.

However, the last couple of months have seen a change. Chicago, which hasn't won a pennant in over 30 years, has faded from the division race and are now a distant third behind the Phillies and Pittsburgh.

And Madlock is begining to improve at the plate. Where he was hitting just .290 several weeks ago he now has climbed above .300 and while he probably won't win the National League batting crown, should finish with a higher average than Murcer.

As far as the RBI's and home runs go Madlock is not really that concerned with them.

"Where I'm hitting in the line-up (generally first or third) it's hard to get RBI's," he commented. "I still like to get the base hits although it's a little it will be a little hard to catch Pittsburgh's Dave Parker now."

Parker is leading the NL with a .348 average.

Besides Madlock's batting average he has also provided the Giants with an adequate glove at third base, something they needed after they delt away Ken Reitz to St. Louis.

The Speier-Foli trade has made that much of a difference to either club.

Both players are fair hitters and respectable in the field. While the Giants are one of the worst overall fielding teams in the majors it is not the fault of Foli who has done an adequate job at shortstop.

Speier has had his ups and downs with the Expos and Montreal has slumped to 22 games off the Eastern Division pace, worse than the Giants in the Western Division.

While Foli may have developed a reputation for getting in more brawls than the average player his gutty, determined style of play has helped the Giants in several situations this season.

He had the game-winning hit as a pinch-hitter against St. Louis Saturday and has started a lot of double plays for San Francisco.

In retrospect both the Foli-Speier and Madlock-Murcer trades haven't turned out that badly for San Francisco.

So, while San Francisco has made some atrocious trades in the past, at least this season, they managed to receive an equal amount of ability in return.

In addition, they managed to pick up Willie McCovey, that ageless wonder who could finish with as many as 30 home runs and 90 RBI's this season.

Prep football is back

All the color and pageantry

Seven East Bay Athletic League teams begin the non-league football season this weekend with six games tonight and one on Saturday.

In action tonight Granada hosts Overfelt of San Jose, Amador Valley travels to Fremont's Tak Fudenna Stadium to meet Irvington, Dublin tangles with visiting American, Foothill hosts St. Marys, Castro Valley is at Livermore and Oak Grove of San Jose visits San Ramon. California will play its first-ever home game at 1 p.m. tomorrow when it hosts Benicia. Monte Vista hosted Sunset last night. See results elsewhere in Times sports.

GRANADA-OVERFELT

Granada will be facing a rugged Royal squad which has 17 lettermen.

Overfelt has one of the fastest backfields in the Bay Area with wide-receiver-slotback Dwayne Taylor leading the way. Taylor can run the 100 in 9.6. Tailback Carl Monroe, a hurdler in track, will do most of the running, according to Royal coach John Cali.

Fullback Kurt Yokoyama will be used mostly as a blocker.

"We also have plenty of size at tackle," Cali said. "Ed Hall (6-1, 225 pounds) and John Revlez (6-2, 230 pounds) are the backbone of our line."

Granada has a strong defense returing from last season.

The Matadors have eight returning starters from the defensive line-up returning this season. Mike Nalty, one of the top defensive players in the East Bay (6-2, 218) will anchor the unit at nose guard.IgGranada will have plenty of size in the defensive line-up. Steve Stoddard, (5-11, 210), Vern Fowler (6-2, 208) and Brian Karvalis (6-0, 210) are other solid prospects at tackle.

Times SPORTS
Dave Weber, Editor

The Matadors' linebackers include Kevin Gosney (6-1, 185) and Jim Tonne (5-10, 180). Gosney is a returning starter from lasr year and should be one of the EBAL's best this season.

Steve Robison, who will also quarterback the Matadors, might play free safety for Granada. With Overfelt's speed the Matador linebackers could be in for a busy evening.

The Matadors will run the Power-I this year instead of the Veer which led them to the EBAL title for two straight years. With Robison in the backfield could be tailbacks Dave Ridgewell, Eric Conkin and Steve D'Ambra.

Mustangs snuffed by Sunset

DANVILLE — Sunset High School utilized a three-pronged running attack to defeat the Monte Vista Mustangs, 27-21, in the East Bay's first non-league football game last night.

John Fernandez pounded up the middle for 144 yards while Mike Grant ran for 69 yards and Tony Gonzales for 78 on the outside to outdo Monte Vista's option attack.

But the Mustangs were not stopped by much.

With 1:38 left in the game Monte Vista was on the Sunset five-yard line, but Bart Adams, who completed 11 of 24 passes on the night, missed connections with Carl Fluis in the right corner of the end zone on fourth down and Sunset took over to kill the quick.

Early on, it looked as though Monte Vista would be very fortunate to come within a touchdown.

Less than six minutes into the game, Fernandez zig-zagged 64 yards for a touchdown and four minutes later Gonzales circled right end for a 38-yard scoring run. Less than two minutes into the second quarter, it was Grant's turn as he scored on a ten-yard run through the left side of the line.

However, the Mustangs took to the air and scored with a minute remaining in the half on a pass from Adams to Jim Kelly.

Sunset went back up by 20 with 8:25 left in the period when Gonzales again broke loose for a 44-yard touchdown run.

Monte Vista, getting stronger as the game went on, countered with an Adams to Brad Ingram touchdown throw and finalized the score with a 14-yard Adams pass to Fluis. Craig Robinson kicked all three extra points for the Mustangs.

In junior varsity play, Sunset also prevailed, 34-28.

Pair advances in playoffs

Regular-season champion Nazarene Church and Matador Lounge each took victories in first-round action of the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District Mens B2 league Slo-pitch softball playoffs last night at Max Baer Park.

Nazarene and Matador Lounge will meet for the title Thursday in a best two out of three series. If the teams split, they will play a rubber match the following Thursday.

In last night's action Nazarene topped Kavanagh Liquors 4-2, and Matador Lounge held off Smorga Bob's 6-5.

Nazarene Church struck for four runs in the first stanza to decide the issue quickly in its contest.

Mike Dailey walked to open the first stanza. Joe Montaro then clubbed a double to move Dailey to third. An error on Mark Foster's fly to right field scored Dailey and Montaro to give Nazarene a 2-0 advantage.

Another error on Chuck Boswell's ground ball and singles by Jim Berns and Chuck Kohouter accounted for the final two Nazarene runs.

The losers threatened again in the sixth as losing pitcher Glenn Fuller singled and Jack Kavanagh followed suit. However, two ground outs and a fly out ended the inning.

The winners had eight hits and Kavanagh belted seven. Montaro had a triple and two doubles to lead Nazarene's attack.

Matador Lounge pounded out 12 hits, including two triples by Paul Cardoza in its win over Smorga Bob's.

Cardoza had leadoff triples in the fifth and seventh innings and eventually scored both times. Smorga Bob's had 15 hits as Chuck Canfield and Al Kirkes each had two safeties.

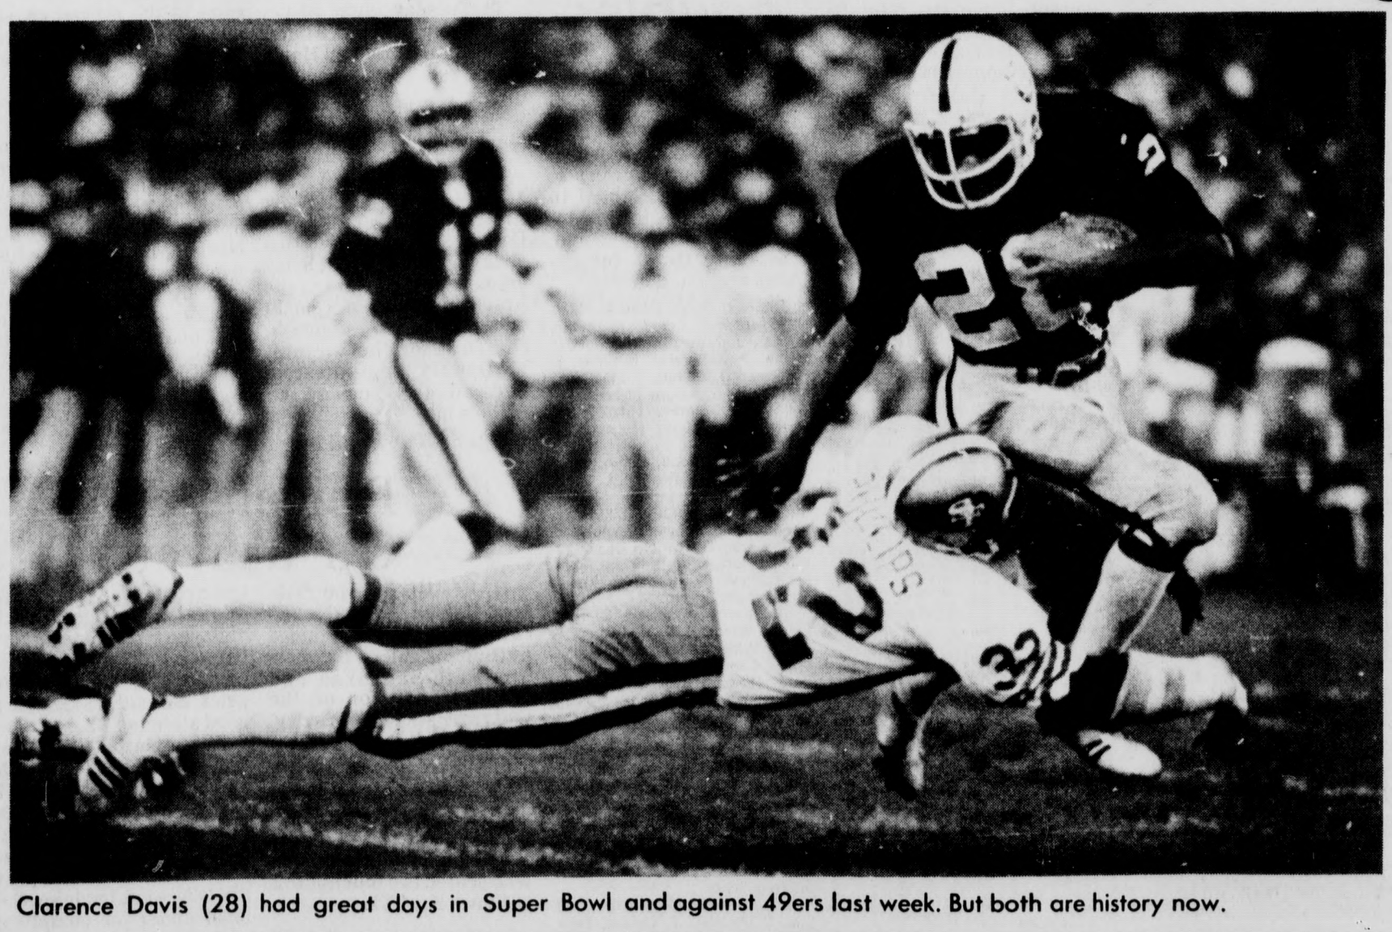
Raiders must scramble again to defend



Clarence Davis (28) had great days in Super Bowl and against 49ers last week. But both are history now.

OAKLAND — The Oakland Raiders remember the close games of last season as well as their runaway victory over the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl XI.

"Every season, there are some games where everything goes right, some that are really tough and some where things go wrong. In all three, you still have to find ways to win," says Coach John Madden.

Madden and the Raiders found ways to win games that seemingly were lost, like 31-28 over Pittsburgh in the season opener, 28-27 over Chicago at midseason and 24-21 over New England in the playoffs.

That ability to scramble to victory in the tough games had more to do with the Raiders claiming the National Football League title than their performance in the Super Bowl, where everything went right as they trounced the Vikings 32-14.

It also set the Raiders apart from their challengers in the American Conference West. The Denver Broncos, San Diego Chargers and Kansas City Chiefs all came close in at least one meeting with Oakland but finished with a combined 0-6 record against the team which won its ninth division title in 10 years by finishing 13-1.

Denver was second, but a 9-5 record wasn't good enough to earn Coach John Ralston another try at catching Oakland. Red Miller is the new coach, perhaps getting the job because the New England offense he coached last year handed the Raiders their only loss, 48-17.

The Broncos also have a new No.1 quarterback, well-traveled Craig Morton, and former Los Angeles Ram James Harris is the Chargers' new quarterback.

The Raiders have all their front-line players back for the defense of the title and, barring injury or surprises, the starters on Sept. 18 against San Diego should be the same 22 men who started in the Super Bowl. Naturally, Madden's club is an overwhelming favorite to again beat the Broncos, Chargers, Chiefs and the new AFC West member, the Seattle Seahawks.

"The Raiders look stronger than I've ever seen them," Chargers Coach Tommy Prothro said after a 35-7 exhibition loss to them.

The Oakland defense finished strong in 1976, a season which began with an injury-enforced switch from a four-man line to the three-man group of Otis Sistrunk, Dave Rowe and John Matuszak.

New AV baseball coach

Brabbin the promoter

New Amador Valley High School varisty baseball coach Larry Brabbin plans to bring the magic ingredient of promotion to the diamond when he takes over his job next spring.

Brabbin, who succeeds Don Bush as head coach of one of the East Bay Athletic's League's consistent winners, hopes the Pleasanton school will be ready to accept the challenge.

Brabbin's appointment to the post actually came near the end of the last school year, after Duffy Dufour was named head football coach when Fred Wood retired. Brabbin, among others, was in the running for the top football post.

Coach of the junior varsity baseball squad and an assistant coach under Wood for the last three years, Brabbin will now coach junior varsity football to ease the load of his Fall schedule, which includes teaching Industrial Arts full-time.

"Don (Bush) and I really got along well," said Brabbin on his involvement with the baseball program at Amador. "I'm really proud to take over a program as successful as our baseball has been."

"I'm probably going to get involved in the promotion of the sport; that will be one of my major concerns," Brabbin releted. "We want to let people know we're out there. I want more than ten people out at the game. I'm going to try to play good teams at home, and some of the better teams from the DVAL (Diablo Valley Athletic League)," he added.

Brabbin plans to set up a Player of the Week to be posted at Amador Valley Sporting Goods for weekly awards, among other ideas. He would like to see more student body involvement in the games, and will go as far as to assign ball girls to sweep off the bases during the game.

"I'd also like to see our games announced," Brabbin said. "At most of the high schools where I played in Arizona, we announced our games over a Public Address system. It gives a little spirit to the team."

Brabbin plans to get the Boosters Clubs and parents involved in the activities of the team. He's planning on an elaborate baseball program, and wants to have each of the team members sell an ad for the program to help pay for new warmup uniforms . A batting cage is also a need for the future.

"Basically, I just want the team to show a little class," Brabbin noted.

Brabbin spent his college days at Arizona State University, majoring in Industrial Arts Education after first planning on Architecture.

A back injury he suffered during his last high school football game ended his athletic career as far as college went. He had planned to attend Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff before aggravating his bent spine, and was to play football and baseball.

"I was very fortunate to be at Arizona State," he remembers. "I got to sit around and talk baseball with a lot of guys. I had in my mind all along I wanted to coach football and baseball."

While at ASU Brabbin took classes on football and baseball coaching, with Frank Kush and Bobby Winkles — now manager of the Oakland A's — his teachers. He was surrunded by the likes of Reggie Jackson, Gery Gentry, Duffy Dyer and Sal Bando, all of whom attended the baseball-crazy school at around the same time.

"Coaching baseball allows me to teach what I want to teach and still play baseball," said Brabbin, who expressed the difficulties of coaching football and teaching shop at the same time.

Later in the year, most shop projects are completed and teaching is minimal, which allows him more time to concentrate on coaching.

His biggest task will be to rebuild a Don pitching staff that lost two of its best picthers ever to play at the school: Rob Wicks and Mike Krikorian. This year's staff will have no previous varsity experience.

Brabbin lives in Pleasanton with his wife, Cathy, and 3-year old son Todd. The Brabbins expect another child the first week of April — smack dab in the middle of baseball season.

Delta coach fears thumbs down sign from Gladiators

STOCKTON — To hear Bill Gott tell it, they might as well ring for a fleet of ambulances and throw up a news blackout around this city tonight.

The San Joaquin Delta College football coach leaves the impression the Chabot Gladiators are going to feed his Mustangs to the Lions, if they don't chop them into little pieces first.

"There's not much we can do against. them," Gott said yesterday. "They're a real well coached football team, they do a good job with the players they get.

"When we lost to them, 23-14, last year, they looked like they'd been playing for about a year straight and our kids looked like they were just meeting for the first practice," he recalled.

The image didn't change when Gott scouted the Glads in their tri-scrimmage with Santa Rosa and Mendocino last weekend.

"There was no comparision. Chabot's second and third stringers were beating them and the first string just demolished those guys," Gott said. Still, playing in a league with Fresno and Sequoias, Delta is used to tough competition. And Taft, which clobbered Fresno in a scrimmage last week, is on the non-league agenda.

Chabot will start two valley players, sophomore linebacker Otto Kibary, from Amador Val(ey High School, and nose guard Ron Freeman, a soph from Granada, while four others, all from Amador, are likely to see action.

Mike Goodison, Dave Sebahar, Bob Koopmann and Eric Larson will all be in the first line of reserves for the Glads. Running back Jeff Jensen, of Dublin, is out with the flu while two other rushers, Les Santos, who broke his jaw and will miss three weeks, and Larry Sampson, with a sprained ankle, will also be sidelined.

The injury to Jensen could pave the way for Livermore's Charlie ockover to take over the kicking duties for Chabot.

Coach Keith Calkins has said the Glads will set up in a double wing formation and will tend to throw the ball quite a bit. As for the defense, assistant coach Terry Cagaanan says his athletes aren't too big, but are "quick, good aggressive athletes."

Ron Jones of Marina will quarterback Chabot. Other local players on this season's squad are Mike Colvin, from Foothill, Bennie Lafever, from Amador, Tom Futak, from Dublin and John Sevo, from Amador.

Gott, meanwhile, says his team also likes to throw, "When we have a passer." Whether sophomore starter Steve Berry is that passer remains to be seen, but Mustang wide receivers dropped 12 passes in a scrimmage with Los Medanos.

With the exceptions of Berry and right guard Steve Brown, the entire Delta offense consists of untested freshmen.

"It should be a very interesting game for us," Gott said. "We have to plan on moving people around to find out what we have. But it's very difficult to think of any one phase we'll do well at.

"We should be a better running team, since we have a little more speed."

On defense, backs Louis Felix, Kevin Arbet, Joe Ortega and Al Ivy return along with John Ferriao, a 5-7, 190-pound nose guard, tackle Gilbert Wilbon and ends Terry Burns and Rick Manbin.

Game time is 7:30 for the junior college curtain raiser at Delta.

49ers tackle Broncos Saturday

Struggling to get their offense untracked enough to give a weary defensive unit some rest, the San Francisco 49ers close the six - game pre - season experiment period Saturday in Candlestick Park against the Denver Broncos.

The game will kick off at 6 p.m. and is billed as the Sixth Annual Mayor's Youth Bowl, the regular pre - season event, originated by the 49ers, in which the team, the opponent (in each year it has been the Broncos) and the City of San Francisco share equally in the net income.

The formula calls for each of the parties to get one - third of the net profits. In the previous five years more than half - a - million dollars has gone into the Mayor's Youth Fund, which operates a number of varied programs throughout The City.

The 49ers suffered (and that is the word) their fourth loss in five tries last week when the World Champion Oakland Raiders, playing virtually errorless ball, took a 33-0 victory.

It was the second straight week in which the 49ers offense had been unable to score a touchdown. The week before, San Francisco lost to Houston, 17-3, with a Tom Wittum field goal putting the only 49er points on the board.

Other San Francisco losses were to Seattle, 34-24, and San Diego, 32-13, but their lone victory was a big one, 23-14, over NFC West defending champion Los Angeles.

While the 49ers have been struggling, the Broncos, on the other hand, are off to their best pre - season ever, and gained a 27-10 win over the Seattle Seahawks last week to run their pre - season mark to 4-1 heading into the final week.

Other Bronco victories have been over Baltimore, 14-8, St. Louis, 15-7, and Atlanta, 10-2. Their sole loss came at Philadelphia against the Eagles, 28-24.

Earlier, though winning, Denver had been having problems getting its offense underway, but in the past two weeks the Bronco offense has scored 51 points.

The pre - season series between the 49ers and Broncos is far longer than any regular - season competition between them. Since the beginning in 1968, there have been nine pre - season 49er - Denver games, with San Francisco holding a 6-3 lead.

Since the Mayor's Youth Bowl was instituted in 1972, the 49ers have won three, Denver two. Last year, San Francisco won, 17-7. Regular season - competition between the two teams consists of only two games, both won by the 49ers.

San Francisco sustained only one injury about which to worry against Oakland, that to regular right side linebacker Dave Washington, who injured his left knee. The injury is not considered serious, but the tall, 8th - year man may be held out of this week's action as a precaution.

Everyone else will be ready and, even though it is the final pre - season game of the year, this may be the week that reserve quarterback action since a brief appearance in the first game.

Bull, 6-5, 215 - pound 2nd - year man from Arkansas, has had a back problem which has kept him not only out of the games, but also out of much practice time. He suited up last week and possibly could have played, but he will be ready this week if Coach Ken Meyer should call him to action.

Although they didn't get to Oakland's Ken Stabler last week, San Francisco's pass rush did add four more QB sacks to its total

Gaillard leaves USF in a huff

SAN FRANCISCO — Bob Gaillard said Thursday he is quitting as basketball coach at the University of San Francisco, a job he claimed he didn't wanted to begin with.

"I've been here for almost 10 years and I never wanted to be here in the first place," said Gaillard, who piloted the Dons to a 29-2 record last year. "Things just sort of snowballed."

After two years as an assistant and seven years as head coach, during which he compiled a 142-51 record and won four West Coast Athletic Association crowns, Gaillard, Associated Press Coach of the Year last season, said he would step down following the 1977-78 season.

"The basic reason is my family situation," said Gaillard, 37, married and the father of three. "I want to be in a position where I can devote more time to my family."

But Gaillard indicated to newsmen that he also was concerned that he was losing the motivation needed to sustain the school's program at a high level.

"When you have a really good team, it takes away some of the ingenuity, the inventiveness and the 'coachability' through which a coach can express himself," he said.

"We went from being one of the worst teams in the league when I arrived to being one of the best," Gaillard added, "and it's very difficult to sustain once you build up that level of excellency."

Tark reprieved

LAS VEGAS — A local judge issued a temporary restraining order Thursday prohibiting the University of Nevada-Las Vegas from suspending basketball coach Jerry Tarkanian as recommended by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The NCAA included the suspension in slapping the UNLV athletic program with two years' probation for about 20 violations of NCAA bylaws.

On Wednesday, UNLV president Dr. Donald Baetler notified Tarkanian in writing that he had reached a decision as to the institutional penalites to be levied by the university.

Baetler, fearing that the university might face a more severe reprimand if the NCAA's recommendations were not followed, concluded that he must suspend Tarkanian during the period of the probation.

Connors advances, Stove out

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — Defending champion Jimmy Connors, hitting his ground strokes with strength and precision and volleying superbly, put on a brilliant display of power tennis Thursday night in defeating Spain's Manuel Orantes 6-2, 6-4, 6-3 and advancing to the semifinals of the $462,420 U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Connors, the No. 2 seed from Belleville, Ill., had the plucky Spaniard racing from one side of the court to the other chasing his hard-hit shots, which consistently landed just within the sidelines or just short of the baseline.

And when the 25 - year - old Connors rushed to the attack at the net, his volleys were too hard for Orantes to handle, or too sharply angled.

It was marvelous tennis, as good as the West Side Tennis Club has seen thus far in the nine days and nights of the Open.

The victory, for the fiercely competitive Connors, avenged a pair of stinging losses he had suffered to Orantes — a straight-set wipeout in the 1975 Open final, and another straight-set shocker in the final of the U.S. Clay Court Championships at Indianapolis earlier this summer.

It was the most specacular display of the tournament by Connors, who suffered a strained back 12 days ago but has shown no ill effects in winning all five of his matches in straight sets en route to the semifinals, where he will face Corrado Barazzutti of Italy.

Barazzutti, an unseeded Italian clay court specialist who earlier beat Romania's Ilie Nastase, upset third-seeded Brian Gottfried of Lauderhill, Fla. 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 in an earlier quarter-final match.

Fourth-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina will play No. 12 Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md. in the other semifinal. Both semis are Saturday.

Barazzutti's upset of Gottfried was not the only surprise of the afternoon session. The third seeded women's player, Virginia Wade, also was beaten by a little-known 24 - year - old.

Giants err, lose

CINCINNATI — George Foster drove in the winning run with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the ninth inning to snap the Cincinnati Reds' three-game losing streak with a 6-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants Thursday night.

With one out, Pete Rose reached first when first baseman Willie McCovery bobbled the throw from pitcher Randy Moffitt, 3-8. Rose stole second base and went to third on Ken Griffey's infield hit. An intentional walk to Joe Morgan set the stage for Foster's sacrifice fly.

The Giants' attack was paced by McCovey's two homers off starter Paul Moskau.

McCovey increased his career home run total to 491, within two of Lou Gehrig's 12th place total on the all-time home run list.

Giants starter Charlie Williams was a victim of his own wildness in the first inning, walking two batters after two were out, helping the Reds score four runs.

The Giants scored three runs in the first inning. Gary Thomasson walked and went to third on a single by Rob Andrews. Moskau balked on a pickoff move to first base, scoring Thomasson.

McCovey then slammed the first of his two home runs into the right-field seats.

Cincinnati scored four runs in the first after two were out. Joe Morgan and Foster walked, and both scored on Dan Driessen's double. Bench singled to left scoring Driessen and advanced to second on an error by Terry Whitfield. Cesar Geronimo followed with a run-scoring single.

Morgan drew a walk leading off the Reds third inning. He stole second and went to third on Foster's single, and scored on a ground out by Bench.

Han's HR wins it

In Tuesday night Bl action Round Table edged Red Baron 8-7 on Bill Han's home run in the seventh inning.

It was Hahn's second four-bagger of the game.

Red Baron jumped off to a 4-1 advantage after the first inning. Jack Pickera, Dennis Poynter and Dwayne Childress each had singles for the losers in the first inning. Kip McDonald and Han belted singles in the first for the victors. McDonald singled, stole second and scored on Hahn's hit.

Round Table added a run in the second on singles by Dave Bedford and Bob Parness but Bob Cantrell smashed a homer in the third to give Red Baron a 5-2 advantage.

The victors scored three times in the fifth on homers by Hahn and Bob Parness.

Round Table added three more runs in the sixth. Dave Bedford led off with a triple and four straight singles by Bill Geyer, Mike Prokasch, Parness and McDonald scored the runs.

The winners had 13 hits and Red Baron collected 14. The losers hurt their cause by committing three errors.

Raider Vets On Waivers

OAKLAND — The Oakland Raiders' annual waivertime maneuvers included putting the names of veterans Pete Banaszak and Warren Bankston on the waiver list, temporarily, this week, it was revealed Thursday.

"I'm not worked up or alarmed. All I know is I'll be here to play," said Banaszak, the running back who scored two touchdowns in Super Bowl XI.

Bankston, reserve tight end and special teams captain, also expects to be in uniform for Friday night's National Football League exhibition game in Los Angeles. He said, "I feel I'm in good standing."

Although the NFL's current player limit is 48, the Raiders had 51 players in camp, meaning they recalled players who had been claimed by other teams and substituted players who went unclaimed — legal under the complicated waiver system.

One sidelight to the game will be the return of Dino Certa, a former Livermore High player. Certa, a assistant coach at Overfelt, played under Granada coach Don Couch, when he coached at Livermore.

DUBLIN-AMERICAN

American is planning to pass more this year after being a run-oriented team the past several seasons.

The Eagles have shifted to an I-Pro offense this season, according to assistent coach Tom Barentson.

"We're still adjusting to the change," Barentson admitted. "But we should have a fine quarterback prospect in Rich Gubena."

Gubena, a 6-3, 200 pounder, started the Eagles' first game last season but injured himself during practice the next week and sat out the rest of the year. He should be a big asset to American's attack this year.

"He's got a good throwing arm and should really do a good job for us this year," Barentson went on.

Other top players for the Eagles are Tom Whitner, a 6-foot, 180 pound defensive back who made All Mission Valley Athletic League last year and wide receiver Tim Sandoval.

Greg Arenas, a 6-2, 190 pounder, will go both ways for American in the line.

"He has a lot of skill and is very quick," said Barentson.

Dublin is recovering from the loss of ace running backs Jim Boulware and Chuck Gangnuss to graduation.

The Gaels have solid replacements in returning starter Jon Batchelor and junior Lynn Beamon. Batchelor rushed for over 300 yards last season.

Dublin's strength should be in the offensive and defensive lines.

Tony Soares, Marty Sparlini and Jerome King spearhead the Gael line.

Other potential Dublin standouts are quarterback Mike Hardy, who has impressed in practice, and defensive back Dane Seropian.

The Gaels are blessed with more depth this year than in previous seasons. They have 37 players on the varsity.

ST. MARY'S-FOOTHILL

St. Mary's has five starters returning from last year's squad. The defensive secondary should be the Panthers' strong point. Morris Whiten, Ahmad Anderson and Ernie Cash are top defensive backs.

However, the Panthers are inexperienced this year. The offensive line is made up of junior varsity players with no varsity experience.

"We're very inexperienced this year," commented St. Mary's coach Al Isola. "I don't know how good or bad we'll be this year."

Isola, who was raised in Pleasanton, praised senior fullback Rich Bertero.

"He's the best player on the team," the mentor stated about the three-year letterman.

Sophomore Ralph Beachum will mann the quarterback post for St. Mary's. He will throw to split ends Arch Zelick and Mike Thomas plus tight end Ken Gardner.

The Panthers will run the slot out of the pro and I formations.

St. Mary's scrimmaged powerful Berkeley last week and lost 21-7.

"We did some good things but more bad things," said Isola.

Foothill also had an inexperienced squad. The Falcons, who recorded a winning season last year, will rely on Doug Stevenson who played on the jvs last year, to start at quarterback. He will be joined in the backfield by Greg Costello, Tim Cordes and Sandy Eddington.

Foothill's strong point last season was its defense and while it lost a lot of players to graduation, still has some solid talent left.

Tackle Eric Moran, a 6-5, 240 pounder, and rangy linebacker Rich Kruppa (6-3, 190 pounds) will key the Falcon defense.

On offense, center Ken Franco (6-0, 195 pounds) a returning letterman, lends experience in the line.

AMADOR VALLEY-IRVINGTON

Irvington has only one player over 200 pounds but will rely on good quickness and aggressive hitting, according to coach Gary Miller.

"We'll have to rely on quickness," Miller remarked. "We just don't have the strength to go head-on."

Dave Pinkett, a 5-11, 170 pounder, will be the Irvington quarterback. H started half of the Vikings' games last season.

"Dave's a better passer than runner but he can run if he has to," commented Miller. "We'll defintely put the ball in the air."

Irvington will use a pro-I type formation. Four running backs will split duty for the Vikes.

Greg Meily and Russ Deacon are 180 pounders while Eric Garner and Dana Fogle weigh in at 165.

Miller feels Irvington will be stronger on defense.

"We have more experience on defense," he commented. "Jerry Collins and Dave Hague are returning starters in the defensive backfield while Deacon and Meily are at the linebacker posts.

Dave Debus (6-1, 200) and center Gabe Hendrix (5-11, 190) key the Viking offensive line. Hendrix is the only returning starter.

Irvington was 5-4-1 last year and was fifth in the Mission Valley Athletic League, losing three games in the last minute.

Amador Valley should have one of its best teams in several seasons.

The Dons are paced by returning starter Pat Inglesby at quarterback and two-way performer Rob Flores at running back and defensive back. Flores made All-EBAL at defensive back last season.

Amador Valley will have size and experience in both the offensive and defensive lines.

Al Garner (5-11, 185) is the starting center. Other top prospects among the 17 lettermen are guard Ernie Zumbach, one of the EBAL's best shotputters, Chuck Grandon and Glen Russell, a 6-2, 230 pounder.

CASTRO VALLEY-LIVERMORE

Castro Valley will throw a big, fairly experienced team at the Cowboys.

The Trojans have 12 returning lettermen including ace quarterback Bill Plant. Plant threw for 983 yards last year.

Lloyd Johnson, who had 29 receptions last year, returns at wide receiver for Castro Valley.

Alvin Johnson at tailback and Chuck Grover at fullback will spark the Trojan running game. Johnson started last season and gained 231 yards in four league contests.

Tom Munns (6-1, 225 pounds) is a returning veteran in the line. Dale Cope, who did not play varsity last season, is a 6-6, 250 pound giant at tackle.

The Trojans have experience in the defensive backfield with three four lettermen back. Mike McConvey, who also plays tight end on offense, is another top defensive player. However, the 6-2, 225 pounder is doubtful for tonight's game with an injury.

The Trojans have 32 players on the varsity and have a fair amount of balance on both offense and defense.

Coach John Brosnan feels that Castro Valley could be a contender for the Hayward Area Athletic League title.

"How fast our offensive line develops is the key," he stated.

BENICIA-CALIFORNIA

Mike Mitchell will take the place of Shawn Murphy as Benecia's starting quarterback after the former player broke his hand in practice.

The Panthers will run the Pro-I offense and have running backs James White and Tony McIntosh.

Benicia, which had a 3-6 mark last year in the Superior California Athletic League, has a young group of receivers returning. The Panthers only have two returning lettermen from last year's squad and one of them is Murphy. The other is defensive lineman Dave Brom a 215-pounder. Brom will key the defensive line.

California will be led by returning quarterback Tom Woodmansee. Woodmansee has an able backup in Matt Dulick so the Grizzlies should be strong at quarterback.

However, the Grizzlies' biggest asset should be their depth. California has almost 40 players on the varsity compared to 22 last season.

Other Grizzly standouts are halfback Craig Miller, who broke loose for a long touchdown against Benicia last year, and lineman Tracy Nodlinski. Halfback Tyler Laurie is another promising letterman.

Wide receiver Chuck Cary, is he is healthy, should give the Panther defenders fits. Cary finished among the top five receivers in the EBAL last year.

OAK GROVE-SAN RAMON

The San Jose team went 6-4 last season and has a strong defense returning. Many of the Eagle players will go both ways.

Oak Grove will have an experienced defensive backfield.

San Ramon is sparked by senior quarterback Guy Houston. The Wolves should fill the air with footballs and will test the Eagle air defense.

However, San Ramon lacks depth. Back-up quarterback Troy Thomas is out for the season with an injury.

Namath gets nod

LOS ANGELES — Joe Namath starts at quarterback Friday night as the Los Angeles Rams aim to reverse their National Football League preseason image with the unenviable job of battling the defending Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders.

Coach Chuck Knox, whose Rams are just 1-4 in the exhibition games, emphasized that the starting of ex-New York Jet ace doesn't necessarily mean that the 34 - year - old will be starting when the league season starts.

Oggie's Swingers in D playoffs

Oggie's Swingers edged Native Sons 12-11 Wednesday night and thus will play American Sports Supply Wednesday in the semi-finals of the Livermore Area Recreation men's slow-pitch D League softball playoffs.

Ron Monks will take on Bell Engineering in the other semi-final contest Wednesday.

Oggies jumped off to a 10-5 advantage after thr innings but had to hold off a late Native Sons rally.

Doug Pope had a home run and single to lead the winners. Dave Visbeck and Neil Zurakowski each had a double and single. Keith Dayton smashed a home run and double and scored twice. Dennis Caldwell added a double. Rocky McKinly added a single and scored once.

Native Sons scored twice in the seventh on five hits.

Bib Calderia had four singles and scored twice. Fred Sator added a double and single. Mark Rasmussen had three singles, including one in the seventh to score a run.

The winners had 13 hits and the losers 19. Rich Billia added two singles for Native Sons.

AFC West measures champs

The excellent linebacking and secondary personnel, of course, helped make the 3-4 defense work and convinced the Raiders to stick with it.

Quarterback Ken Stabler led NFL passers last season with statistics which included a 66.7 completion percentage and 27 touchdown passes. He has two excellent young receivers in Cliff Branch and tight end Dave Casper and also 34-yearold Fred Biletnikoff who seems to get better with age.

Mark van Eeghen, who rushed for 1,012 yards in his first season as a starter, and Super Bowl star Clarence Davis lead the rushing attack which operates behind one of pro football's best lines, featuring the leftside blocking of tackle Art Shell and guard Gene Upshaw. Ray Guy, perhaps the NFL's best punter, gives the Raiders another advantage over many teams.

At Denver, Miller takes over a team which held opponents to 206 points, second-best defensive mark in the AFC last year, but scored more than two touchdowns in only six games. The offense also had three 40- point games, and Miller says he isn't interested in having a team of "peaks and valleys."

Morton, whose last NFL stop was with the New York Giants, will be working with one of the league's most dangerous running backs, Otis Armstrong, and has some excellent receivers such as Haven Moses and tight end Riley Odoms.

San Diego's offense has several new faces. Besides Harris, there's his former Los Angeles teammate, Bob Klein, at tight end, former Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers at wide receiver and Joe Washington at running back. Rodgers and Washington may not be starters, but they should make the Chargers one of the most dangerous teams in the league on kick returns.

"A punt return can change a game in one play," says Rodgers, who starred in Canadian pro football four years.

First, however, the Chargers must force teams to punt. San Diego allowed 285 points last year while scoring 248 in a 6-8 season.

Kansas City is in the third year of a rebuilding program under Coach Paul Wiggin. The young Chiefs, 5-9 last year, have a tough early schedule this season, facing New England, Oakland and Baltimore during the opening month.

Running backs Woody Green and Ed Podolak were on the injury list as the season approached. Veteran MacArthur Lane led the team in both rushing and receiving last year and will again be depended on heavily by quarterback Mike Livingston.

The Seahawks' building program under the direction of Coach Jack Patera appears to be progressing ahead of schedule.

"Last year they didn't look like an expansion team this year they don't look like a second-year team. They are much more solid," Madden said after the Raiders' 12-10 exhibition loss to Seattle.

Young players such as quarterback Jim Zorn, defensive tackle Steve Niehaus, wide receiver Steve Largent and running back Sherman Smith came through with good performances last year, blending with veterans like tackle Norm Evans and linebacker Mike Curtis to help the Seahawks beat Tampa Bay and Atlanta and scare several other teams.

Patera traded away the draft rights to Tony Dorsett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Pitt, getting in effect five players in return. "What the trade did," Patera said, "was give us a jump on being competitive earlier." Seattle plays each AFC team once this year plus NFC member Tampa Bay, which also came into the league last year.

Air bags approach crucial vote

By SYLVIA PORTER

Q. What requires no effort whatsoever to use, remains hidden until needed, could easily save your life — and almost surely will also add perceptibly to the cost of transportation for millions?

A. An air bag, a cushion which inflates the instant an auto crash occurs but until then remains folded underneath your car's dashboard.

It, along with an automatic seat belt that wraps around an occupant as the car doors close and which requires no fastening, is called a passive restraint system.

Although among the most rigorously tested and demonstrably successful automotive safety systems developed to date, they are about to become the target of fierce debate within Congress.

Briefly, here's why:

This past June 30, Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams decided that these and other passive (automatic) safety systems should become standard equipment in all cars by 1983.

Air bags alone, he estimated, would cost $112 per cars, are as much as a vinyl roof, but would save more than 5,000 lives a year and prevent at least 100,000 serious injuries. The automatic seat belts, which would run about $50, are now installed in about 60,000 VW Rabbits — and have substantially reduced crash injuries.

Offsetting the cost of these or other automatic restraint systems over the life of a car would be savings on insurance premiums plus lower hospital bills and other expenses involved in accidents.

Adam's decision calls for phasing in the passive restraint systems over three years — starting with standard and luxury cars in 1981, followed the next year by intermediates and compacts, and concluding with subcompacts by 1983.

Congressional approval is not essential for Adam's ruling to become effective; no vote is a go - vote. But his move can be reversed within 60 legislative days if both the House and Senate pass resolutions opposing it.

Such resolutions have now been introduced — by Rep. "Bud" Shuster, R-Pa., with more than 150 cosponsors and by Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich.

Hearings are imminent. The Senate consumer subcommittee has scheduled its hearings for Sept. 8th and 9th. The House subcommittee on consumer protection & finance has set its hearings for Sept. 9th and 12th.

Arguments of the opponents to the automatic safety systems rest on three basic premises: the systems are unproven; they constitute needless federal meddling; they will hike consumer costs and increase gas consumption.

Those who disagree with the first point argue that passive restraints are the most effective and acceptable way of reducing highway deaths and injuries.

Among these supporters are: three Secretaries of Transportation; all Department of Transportation auto safety directors since President Johnson; the United Auto Workers; the American Automobile Assn.; virtually the entire auto insurance industry; consumer groups dealing with auto insurance industry; consumer groups dealing with auto safety.

In addition to this prestigious array, a Gallup Poll shows 46 per cent of the public endorse installation of air safety bags in all new cars vs. 37 per cent opposed.

Chrysler's new emission chief

John L. Freeman has been appointed manager of emission systems for Chrysler Corporation, and Albert W. Veit, Jr., has been appointed manager of customer rlations, according to Francis G. Hazelroth, general manager of the Service and Parts Division.

A native of Detroit, Freeman has been manager of customer relations for Chrysler since February 1975. He joined the company in 1958 as a research technician with the missile group. He was later assigned to Dodge Division as a technical service engineer.

He left Chrysler in the early 1960s and worked in service capacities with General Motors, Renault and auto dealerships. Returning to Chrysler in 1965, Freeman was again a technical service engineer until 1970 when he was named Dodge performance manager.

In 1971, he became manager, special events in the public relations department of the United States Automotive Sales and Service group. He rejoined the service department in 174 and was named manager of truck service and parts sales that year.

Freeman and his wife Sharon have two sons, Scott and Jeff, and reside in Algoac, Michigan.

Veit has been manager of the Boston zone service and parts office since 1974.

He succeeds John L. Freeman, who is the Division's new manager of emission controls.

A native of Chicago, Veit joined Chrysler in 1955 as a ser ice representative in the Chrysler Division regional service office in Chicago. He held various service administrative positions with both the Dodge and Chrysler Divisions before he was named field service supervisor for the corporation's Pittsburgh zone office in 1971.

In 1972, Veit was promoted to be manager of the Syracuse service zone office. One year later, he was transferred to manage the corporation's service operations in the Boston zone.

Keep the colors cool

DETROIT — Cool is hot.

Or so say Chevrolet auto mankers.

The hottest selling car colors in the company's line during the 1977 model year have been the shades that look the coolest.

The two runaway car color favorites for the year among all Chevrolet's 10 passenger car lines were light metallic blue number one, with silver a close second. Ranking third and fourth, respectively, are the warmer hues of firethorn red and buckskin with white fifth.

The cool, light metallic blue, top color preference a year ago, repeats as number one this year. But silver, while running second, is also the only color that appears in the top five choices for all 10 car lines in both years.

A dominant factor in the color preferences for 1977 has been the new tone-on-tone color combination offered on the re-designed Impala and Caprice models, according to R. E. Cook, general sales manager.

The tone-on-tone combinations are available in blue, buckskin and silver, which are also three of the five favorite colors for the year.

"Our customers are definitely excited about the tone-on-tone motif with volume on this combination running about 15 per cent of our coupe and sedan production," Cook said.

"The subtle body color contrast offered by the two tone shading of the colors complements the new sheer styling of the Impala and Caprice models."

Light blue metallic was chosen on a little more than 12 per cent of the approximately 2.4 million Chevrolet cars built during the 1977 model year.

Almost neck-and-neck was silver, which accounted for 11.3 per cent of the production.

Firethorn red was third at 10.5 per cent, buckskin fourth at 6.7 per cent, and white fifth at a little more than 5 per cent.

However, if the similar bucksin and the bucksin metallic shades were combined, their total would have matched firethorn red for third place.

Light blue metallic was first choice among buyers of full-size Chevrolet, Chevelles and Nova-Concours lines while silver led among Monte Carlo, Camaro and Monza buyers.

Caprice and Impala — the award winning style improved for 1978 with subtle frontal appearance, chassis improvements.

Here's how to own your own short track racing car

DETROIT — "Our street kit car will give people a chance to drive a Saturday night short track racer seven days a week."

That's Dick Maxwell's enthusiastic comment about the application of short track cosmetics to a street version of a car rapidly catching on in NASCAR, ARCA, and USAC circuits.

Maxwell, who heads Chrysler's performance planning group, is enthusiastic about the unique street kit car package. A limited production item, it will be available in Dodge Aspen and Plymouth Volare versions and sold through the corporation's network of dealers.

PAINT AND FLARES: The "street kit car" look includes unique two-tone paint treatment, a front air dam, a specially-designed hood, wheel flares, angular ducktail deck lid spoiler and dramatic horizontal louvers on the quarter windows.

Richard Petty's famous "43" decals will be stashed in the street kit car trunks for application if the owner wishes.

The performance-oriented car will be available with Chrysler's 318 or 360 V-8 engines. Carburetors with the 318 will be two or four-barrel: the 360 engine will come with a four-barrel carburetor. Street kit cars with 360 engines will have "360" decals on the hood surface. Automatic transmissions will be part of the package, except in Canada where manual transmission will be available with the 318 engine.

Special 15 by 8 wheels with negative offset and bright lug nuts combined with GR 60 by 15" Aramid fiber radial tires will complement the wheel opening flares cut out to allow for, and display dramatically, the large tires on the performance car.

The Tuff steering wheel, well-liked by drivers who savor good response and handling, is part of the street kit car package.

Heavy duty suspension gives additional improved response and handling. It is a "very tight, predictable" car, according to the experts who have test-driven prototypes. A factory-installed rear anti-sway bar is also standard.

COMPETITION VERSIONS AVAILABLE: Chrysler kit cars for racers are so named because they come in a package ready for assembly. Kit cars are available in four ways: basic chassis, rolling chassis, less sheet metal , or complete.

The competition kit cars, according to Maxwell, permit serious short track competitors to build and campaign winning cars with less money, time and experience.

They have steadily improved their showings on NASCAR, ARCA and USAC circuits since their introduction by Chrysler in 1974.

"At the time of their introduction, our competition cars were sleepers on the circuits," said Maxwell. "But their performance has captured the attention of racing fans, and we decided it was time to give the road-driving public a chance to own a kit car."

The red Dodge Aspen and Plymouth Volare Street Kit "43" cars should be on dealership showroom floors in mid-November.

YOU HAULERS.

Tough Toyota trucks. Long Beds. Standards. Sport Trucks. Think of them as sports cars with loads of luggage space.

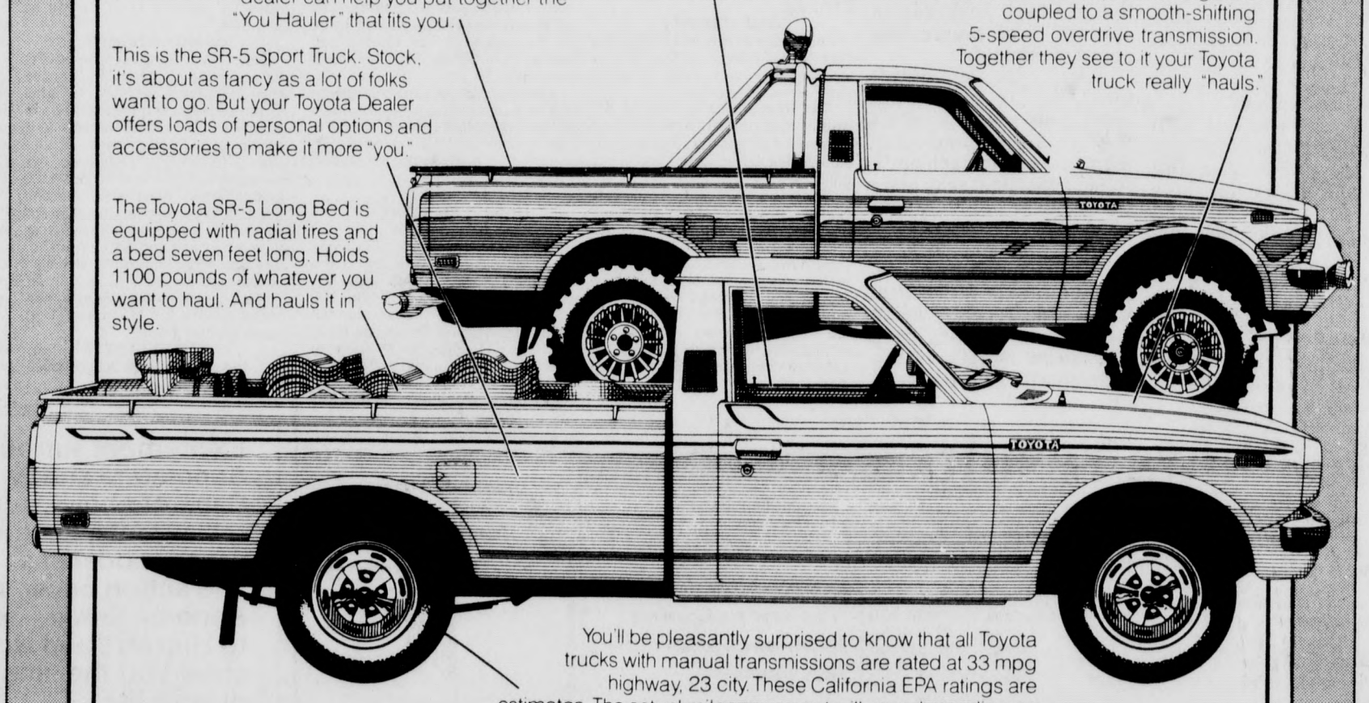
Is this "you"? This is a Toyota Idea Truck. It has optional equipment not manufactured or warranted by Toyota, but available through Toyota Dealers and other sources. Your dealer can help you put together the "You Hauler" that fits you.

This is the SR-5 Sport Truck. Stock, it's about as fancy as a lot of folks want to go. But your Toyota Dealer offers loads of personal options and accessories to make it more "you."

The Toyota SR-5 Long Bed is equipped with radial tires and a bed seven feet long. Holds 1100 pounds of whatever you want to haul. And hauls it in style.

And here's a real comfort cab. Wall-to-wall carpet. Hi-back bucket seats. Tinted glass. AM radio. Personal comfort for you or two.

Here's where the sporty part begins—up front. SOHC 2.2 liter engine. The biggest standard displacement engine in its class. With the most torque. The engine is coupled to a smooth-shifting 5-speed overdrive transmission. Together they see to it your Toyota truck really "hauls."



You'll be pleasantly surprised to know that all Toyota trucks with manual transmissions are rated at 33 mpg highway, 23 city. These California EPA ratings are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on your driving habits and your truck's condition and equipment.

Five Toyota Trucks. Everything you want, you'll find at your Toyota Dealer. Choice of five models. Optional equipment like automatic transmissions and air conditioning, or trick truck equipment to jazz up your hauler.

All Toyota trucks have redesigned suspensions to give a more "car-like" ride. All are built Toyota tough—Toyota tight. They're all you could ask for. That's why we say, "If you can find a better built truck than a Toyota...buy it."

YOU ASKED FOR IT. YOU GOT IT.

Eugene O'Neill lab brings plays to life

By Norman Nadel

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Ask where the new playwrights are coming from, and don't be surprised if the most frequent answer is Waterford, Connecticut.

No, they weren't all born in this placid suburb of New London overlooking Long Island Sound. But this is the 13th consecutive summer during which the Eugene O'Neill Memorial Theater Center there has functioned as a laboratory for playwrights. In that time, 161 new plays by 112 authors have been performed, with professional casts, directors and technicians, before audiences.

The significance of this will not be lost on anyone who has ever tried to write a play. No amount of inspiration, effort, diligence and talent can provide a script which the writer knows is right. In fact, it has often been said that a play does not exist until it is performed before an audience.

So the combination of production with audience reaction becomes the absolutely essential and most useful test. More times than can be counted, a line which appears eloquent on paper sounds clumsy in the context of a performance. A scene which should move swiftly, drags, no matter what the director and cast try to do with it.

A play is a communication between the author and his audience, so it must communicate or it has failed the test. It also must communicate the specific ideas he has written into it, and not something else. And it has to be playable; that is, it must work on stage, through the motions, emotions and speaking of the players.

There are laboratories of a sort: out-of-town and summer theater tryouts, Off-Broadway and Off-Off-Broadway stagings, and specific projects such as the New Dramatists, Ellen Stewart's international network of Cafes La Mama (which have premiered nearly 300 plays since the early 1960s), and the American Playwrights Theater, which provides for production of new scripts on university stages.

Nevertheless, the new playwright, lacking a track record of produced works to attract the interest of producers, still has a tough time finding a way to look at his own work.

This was in the mind of George C. White 13 years ago. He had studied drama at Yale, and was recently returned from Army service abroad, including working as a night club emcee in Germany in his spare time.

White approached several directors, critics and designers with a proposition. He wanted to start a theater center which would honor the memory of Eugene O'Neill, who had lived in New London. He had talked the town fathers of Waterford, very close to the O'Neill's Monte Cristo Cottage, into making available a large, old farm with several run-down but otherwise sturdy buildings.

His plan was to invite young playwrights there to work on their plays while living for a few weeks during the summer at the farm, participating in the production of their plays by professionals. Critics would be on hand to criticize — constructively — on the spot, audiences would have their say, and out of this experience, the writers would develop their skills.

The theory was great. But in practice, there were problems — mostly dealing with human nature — to be worked out. Perhaps the thorniest of these was the natural friction that can develop between people who work in the theater and their critics.

That first summer — 1965 — the procedure was to put on a staged reading of a new play (staged readings, with the actors holding book, still are used, rather than polished productions, because of the short preparation time and the fact that they keep the focus of the play itself). Following the play and a brief intermission, the audience would return to listen to three or four professional drama critics seated on stage.

After the critics had expressed their opinions, the playwright, director and cast could answer back, and finally the audience got into the act. It was fascinating but painful; too soon, actually, to publicly dissect something the author had been working on for months, or years. Tirades, accusations, insults, tears — and nobody ever wanted to leave. Once, moderating such a panel discussion, I had to send everybody home at 1:30 a.m., but they still stood outside in the chill fog, debating the issues, passionately.

On another occasion, a young playwright, whose work already had been commercially produced Off-Broadway in New York, waited impatiently while a director and two critics had their say. Finally he began by announcing: "Critics are the pus in the bloodstream of the theater . . ."

We were surprised but not stunned. Critics get accused of plenty. However, afterwards he came up to me (we had not met formally before), introduced himself, and thanked me for some constructive criticism I had written in the past about his work. "Then what about that 'pus in the bloodstream' bit?" I asked him. "Oh that," he replied. "You know how it is. You get mad at critics over a period of time, and when you get a chance to hit back, well . . . Nothing personal," he concluded, and we became good friends.

On another occasion during a critical session following a play, the guest drama critics were seated, the playwright came in, drew up a chair, opened his briefcase, took out a handgun, laid it on the table, and said: "All right, now let's talk about my play."

The fact that it turned out to be a water pistol only partially eased the tension. But that was one of several episodes that led to the present practice at the O'Neill. A new play is given two staged readings, usually on consecutive nights. The morning after the second, the director, the dramaturg (a critic or other professional drama consultant) and the playwright have their say before an audience, which is then invited to make comments. Critics in the audience are free to comment, but get no special privilege.

A bare bones operation at the start, and still far from financially secure, the O'Neill Center today is supported by 31 foundations, theater unions and corporations, along with many individual donors.

While the National Playwrights Conference runs only four weeks each summer (July 10 to Aug. 7 this year), the preparation occupies the whole year. Typically, about 800 scripts will be submitted each winter, from which a play selection committee will choose 12 to 18.

The O'Neill has expanded beyond the Playwrights Conference and the Critics Institute to include The National Theater of the Deaf, The National Theater Institute, which involves 58 colleges and universities in an advanced theater education program, and "Second Step," which guarantees further production of the O'Neill plays, in college and regional theaters.

Most recent is "New Drama for Television," which gives theater writers a chance to function in another medium.

It is a point of honor that critics, on the faculty or visiting, do not review these laboratory experiments, but this summer the selection looked especially good. Of 12 plays staged last summer, eight have since been done in New York, with a ninth in production, and most had productions around the country.

John Guare, Ron Cowen, Israel Horovitz, Albert Innaurato, Oliver Hailey, Jeff Wanshell, Lanford Wilson and Frank Gagliano are a few of the O'Neill alumni whose names have become known in the theater. Every summer the list grows longer, and more impressive.

U.S. Senate nixes limit on oil firms

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate soundly rejected on Thursday an effort to limit the growth and market power of sprawling petroleum companies by prohibiting them from increasing their uranium and coal holdings.

It turned back, 62-30, a proposal by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that would have placed a moratorium on such acquisitions.

The Kennedy amendment, opposed by both the Carter administration and the oil and gas industries, came as the Senate worked on the coal-conversion portion of President Carter's energy program.

The legislation would bar new electric power plants from using oil or natural gas, encourage existing ones that do so to switch to coal and ban any use of natural gas by electric utilities after 1990.

Backers of the Kennedy amendment claimed that petroleum companies already hold 40 per cent of all U.S. coal reserves and 72 per cent of uranium reserves. They said this trend should be halted.

Kennedy denied that his proposal was a step toward breaking up major oil companies, although he is also sponsoring a bill that would require oil and gas companies that now have coal and uranium holdings to give them up — called horizontal divestiture.

The Senate vote makes it very unlikely that such divestiture bills will go anywhere in Congress this year.

Although Carter said during the 1976 presidential campaign that he favored a limited form of divestiture, since taking office he has declined to support such moves. Administration energy officials have claimed that divestiture at this time would be premature.

Peripheral Canal passes toughest hurdle, one to go

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A plan to build the Peripheral Canal passed what supporters said was its toughest obstacle Thursday and was sent immediately to its final Assembly committee for another vote.

The 4-2 vote of the Assembly Water, Parks and Wildlife Committee reversed two earlier rollcalls in that committee defeating the $3.5-billion water plan.

A hearing was immediately scheduled before the Assembly Ways and Means Committee as supporters tried to push the hotly contested plan through the legislature before adjournment of the 1977 session next week.

The Ways and Means Committee is chaired by Assemblyman Dan Boatwright, DConcord, a vocal foe of the water bill.

The Senate-passed bill needs a two-thirds vote in the Assembly and a second Senate vote, also by a two-thirds majority, before it can go to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. for his signature.

The water bill, SB 346 by Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-Chino, would authorize construction of the 43- mile Peripheral Canal around the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta. It would also authorize four major new reservoirs in Northern California.

The $605-million Peripheral Canal has been the focus of 15 years of dispute, and it has been the cause of most of the opposition to the water bill.

Brown personally negotiated terms of the water bill last June in meetings with environmentalists and federal, state and local water officials.

Since then, some local water districts have rescinded their support for the bill.

Some Delta water groups opposed the plan throughout the negotiations and hearings.

Another cold winter is forecast

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — Keep your long johns handy — the Farmers' Almanac says the coming winter is going to be a bitter one.

"For 1977-1978, we show another rough winter, with cold and snow aplenty although not as bad as the winter just past," says the almanac's 161st annual edition, just off the presses.

The venerable publication was right on target last year when it forecast "a big, bad winter," followed by a "scorchingly hot" summer.

"We predicted it first," crows Almanac editor Ray Geiger, 67, who obtains his forecasts from Harry K. Buie, a retired astronomer and school administrator in Inverness, Fla.

"He uses a secret formula, passed down since the Almanac was founded in 1818," says Geiger. "It's based on sunspots, the position of the planets and the tidal action of the moon."

The Almanac has been issuing forecasts 52 years longer than the National Weather Service.

Lance case a blow to Carter's ethical image

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is having trouble with his own issues: ethics and the economy.

He used to play them like violins. Now the notes are coming out sour.

As a result, the White House is waging defensive campaigns on the very issues that helped get Carter elected.

The irony of it can hardly have escaped Gerald R. Ford, who stood by as a witness while the President who beat him signed the new Panama Canal treaty Wednesday night.

Ford was in town for a show of solidarity between the old administration and the new on the canal treaty. There will be time enough later for Republicans to go after Carter on the questions raised by the Bert Lance case, and on the lagging economy.

The issue of ethics was Carter's starting point. He was the politician who promised never to tell a lie, who said there would be no circle of preference or advantage for the powerful, who pledged to restore trust and confidence in government.

On those matters, Carter cast himself — with some success — as a different kind of political leader. Now he is risking credibility on that very issue in the defense of Lance, the budget director whose private financial transactions have been challenged by government investigators.

There has been no finding of wrongdoing in the Lance affair, and the budget director is entitled to state his case, as he apparently will in Senate testimony next Thursday.

Even so, the record hardly fits with Carter's earlier insistence that there was not even an appearance of impropriety.

Furthermore, in congressional testimony on the Lance case there is a suggestion that some things haven't changed very much after all.

Robert Bloom, the government's chief banking inspector when the Senate approved Lance for the budget post, said he had assumed Carter and his aides "were aware of the most serious problems known to me at that time in connection with Mr. Lance's banking background."

In other words, the disclosures now being made might have come before Lance took office but for the impression that Carter and his assistants knew the whole story and were satisfied.

Women still do housework

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Where work is involved, it's still a man's world, a conclusion one cannot avoid reaching if faith is to be placed in business surveys and scholarly examinations.

A study by John Robinson, recently published in book form as "How Americans Use Time," shows that women still handle almost all the housework and childcare, even when they, like their husbands, hold outside jobs.

Robinson asked a cross-section of women to keep diaries of all their daily activities. Analysing the diaries, he found that women claim to do 80 per cent of the chores, which include lawnmowing as well as dusting.

More revealing were their attitudes. Only 23 per cent of them looked to their husbands for relief or help with the chores, even though they said that some facet of housework was the least enjoyable part of their days.

A survey just completed by a management consulting firm shows something of the same sort in the business world. The average male officer in large corporations makes $50,000 or more; the women make under $30,000.

That report is from Heidrick and Struggles, which studied the careers of 148 women officers in industrial, banking, financial, insurance, retailing and other companies.

Women, it found, tended to come up through the ranks slowly, often graduating from long-held clerical positions to officer status later in life than their male counterparts. Many became corporate secretaries rather than vice presidents.

Perquisites, which increasingly have become more common in lieu of cash compensation in many companies, remain male-dominated. "Not a single one of a dozen perquisites is held by a majority of the women officers, although a number are widely held by males," the report relates.

The women did come close in one area — stock options — which were held by 49.3 per cent of those studied. But not one of them received "auto with driver," only 5.4 per cent held membership in a country club, and only 3.4 per cent held a management contract.

Travel seems to be another exception. "Travel plays a large part in the life of the typical male executive, but this is not the case with the female officer," it was reported. "Indeed, 37 per cent of the women do not travel at all."

That isn't to say that companies decline to send women on trips even when their positions entail travel. More likely, it's in the nature of the woman executive's position as secretary, which is essentially a headquarters job.

But type-casting women executives into the corporate secretary role, while perhaps not blatant discrimination, is discrimination nonetheless, and the women are quite aware of it.

Asked to cite the factor impeding their progress the most, 48.5 per cent said "discrimination." It was considered the worst single impediment, regardless of compensation, marital status, age or education.

Bike races

Some of the best bicycle riders in the country will compete Saturday for $1,800 in prizes offered during the fifth annual Concord Diablo Criterium race at the Concrd Pavilion.

The bicycle race, sponsored by the Diablo Wheelmen bicycle club and a number of area businesses, will begin at 9 a.m.

Riders from age eight to 60 will race over the course in the Pavilion parking lot. Seven races, ranging from 1.8 to 21 miles, will be offered for different age catagories.

Kidnap note

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The kidnapers of industry leader Hanns Martin Schleyer have threatened to execute him unless the search for him is halted, the West German government revealed today.

The execution threat was contained in a ransom letter the government made public 24 hours after it failed to meet a deadline set by the kidnapers for the release of 11 jailed terrorists.

That deadline expired at 8 a.m. Wednesday, but hours later the government demanded that the kidnapers send it a tape recording of Schleyer answering personal question to prove he was alive. A videotape was delivered Wdnesday night, but officials refused to say what was on it.

Plans formed for annual Tri-Valley Trek—Sept. 17

DUBLIN — Get out your walking shoes and join the second annual Tri-Valley Trek Sept. 17.

There is no entry fee. The event is being sponsored by the Valley Community Services District (VCSD), Livermore - Amador Recreation and Park District (LARPD) and the City of Pleasanton.

The trek is not a race for distance. It is a day for getting outside with family and friends for some healthful walking, jogging or running. You set your own pace.

There are three Trek distances to choose from. The longest, 11.7 miles, begins at Independence Park in Livermore and ends at the Valley Community Swim Center in Dublin.

A middle distance of 5.8 miles begins at Amador High School and ends at the Swim Center. The short course, 1.7 mile, is a jaunt from K-Mart to the Swim Center.

Starting times for the long distance is 9 a.m.; 9:15 for the middle and 9:45 for the short course.

There will be a shuttle bus available running from the Swim Center back to all starting points for participants convenience. Aid stations providing lemonade, water, oranges will be provided for Trekker safety; also, roving vehicles and crossing guards at major intersections.

Immediately following the Trek there will be a barbecue with free swimming and games for all participants and their families at the Swim Center located at 8157 Village Parkway in Dublin next to Dublin High School.

Individuals may pre-register at Shannon Park Community Center, 11600 Shannon Ave., Dublin; LARPD, 71 Trevarno Road, Livermore; and City of Pleasanton Recreation Department, 200 Bernal Ave., Pleasanton.

Registrations will also be taken the day of the Trek at Independence Park, Amador High School or K-Mart.

Sept. 12, official Tri-Valley Trek shirts will be on sale at the three sponsoring agencies. They may also be purchased the day of the Trek at registration stations.

Unique 'Country Livin' class offered by VCSD

DUBLIN — Getting back to nature by learning about Country Livin' has been incorporated into a class being taught by naturalist Michael Koslosky at Shannon Community Center.

The Valley Community Services District Recreation Department is sponsoring the class.

Registrations will be taken beginning Sept. 12 from 7 to 9 p.m. From that date on, they will be taken from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday at Shannon Center, 11600 Shannon Drive, Dublin.

Koslosky comes from the Hayward Area Recreation Department, Sulphur Creek Nature Center where he has taught the class in the past.

Country Livin' classes begin at Shannon Center Sept. 19 and continue until Dec. 5. Class hours are from 7 to 9 p.m. The fee is $10 for 10 lessons which includes instruction for the entire family.

Class members will be making beef jerky, cheese, soap, candles and indoor gardens. Generally, these items are extemely less expensive when homemade.

Poultry and rabbit raising will be discussed. There is a part on butchering.

The course looks at organic gardening, suggesting ways even a small plot of ground can keep a family in fresh fruits and vegetables.

Pole fishing, fruit drying and fish smoking will be introduced in Country Livin'.

For further information on this and other programs call 828-7711.

Registrations invited for folk dance course

DUBLIN — Now is the time to think about registering for the International Folk Dance class being offered by the Valley Community Services District.

Registration starts Sept. 12 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Shannon Community Center, 11600 Shannon Drive, Dublin. Also at this time, VCSD Recreation Department's Open House will be held.

Registrations will continue from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Shannon after Sept. 12. Mail-in registrations are also acceptable.

The fee is $8 for six weeks of instruction.

Millie and "Von" von-Konsky will be teaching the class. This is their fourth consecutive year teaching folk dancing at the Center.

Millie is the folk dance specialist for VCSD, the City of Oakland and Chabot College. She conducts extension classes sponsored by California State University at Hayward.

The vonKonsky "Oktoberfest" dancers will be seen in San Mateo, Marin, San Francisco, Redwood City and other places in October. They are noted throughout Northern California for their Bavarian and Austrian "schuhplattler skills."

Millie is past president of the Folk Dance Federation of California. She is General Coordinator for the Teacher Training Program which was cosponsored by California State University Hayward and Laney College of Oakland.

Comfortable dress and shoes are recommended for the classes. Costumes or partners are not required.

NEW TASTE!
THE "FILET" OF 100% VIRGIN TOBACCO!

HOW MOST CIGARETTES ARE MADE:

1. Take virgin tobacco and "filet" it, by removing the main stems.
2. Shred the "filets" and use them in the blend.
3. Chop up the main stems. Use them, too.
4. Gather the tiny, tobacco particles left over from previous batches. Reconstitute them by forming them into sheets. Shred and use.

RESULT: THE TASTE OF COMBINED VIRGIN LEAF AND MAIN STEMS AND TOBACCO BY-PRODUCTS AND RECONSTITUTED TOBACCO.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

HOW NEW L&M LIGHTS ARE MADE:

1. Take virgin tobacco and "filet" it, by removing the main stems.
2. Shred and use only the leafy "filets." Discard the stems.

RESULT: THE REAL TASTE OF 100% VIRGIN ALL-LEAF TOBACCO "FILET." PERIOD.

REALLY REAL TASTE.
